SAYS SHE AVENGED AN INSULT

Friends of Murdered Man Declares He Held Woman in Highest Respect

OPELOUSAS, La., Sept. 22.—Aristocratic St. Landry parish is shaken to its center today over the killing of twenty-three-year-old Allen Garland, cousin of Representative Garland Dupre, and a member of one of the best known families in the state, by Mrs. J. P. McCrea, wife of the division superintendent of the "Frisco" railway here. Mrs. McCrea is more than twice Garland's age and considered beautiful. She is in jail awaiting the action of the coroner. Her friends assert that her course was justified and that she will be triumphantly vindicated. Friends of the Garland and Dupre families declare that the dead youth held women in the highest respect, and that the attempt to justify the killing by the statement that he insulted Mrs. McCrea is not borne out by the facts.

Since she telephoned to her husband and the sheriff that she had killed young Garland, Mrs. McCrea has refused to talk. To them she said: "I killed him, and if every woman who is insulted by a man would do the same thing, there would be more virtue and fewer scandals in this country. As any good woman would be sorry to take a human life, I regret the killing of this young man. I regret it in the sense he forced me into it. The deed was justifiable, no matter how regrettable."

The two families were close neighbors and, because McCrea's duties kept him away from home for long stretches at a time, young Garland often remained at the McCrea home as the protector of the family. Yesterday Mrs. McCrea telephoned his grandmother, asking her to send over a spool of thread. Young Garland took it over and ten minutes later Mrs. McCrea telephoned her husband and later the sheriff that she had shot Garland.

There were only two negro servants in the house at the time and they say they heard no quarrel. Garland was shot three times through the head.

McCrea announced today that he had retained attorneys to clear his wife and that he would remain in the jail with her until the courts act.

FIND SMALL BOY

Late this morning the police department was notified that a two-year-old boy had been found between Twelfth and Thirtieth on Winnebago street. Who his parents are had not been ascertained but efforts to find out where he lives are being made.

SHOOTING WIFE AND SELF
CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Grieving because he was separated from his wife, who left him two months ago, Albert Schneck, 30, early today went to the home where his wife was staying and shot her. Schneck then fired two bullets into his own body. He will die.

WEATHER

For La Crosse and vicinity: Fair tonight; Saturday unsettled but probably fair; warmer tonight.

For Wisconsin: Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer tonight. For Minnesota: Increasing cloudiness with showers tonight or Saturday; colder Saturday and north-west portion tonight.

For Iowa: Fair tonight with warmer east portions becoming unsettled Saturday with cooler west portion.

Weather Notes
An area of low pressure, central over the plateau region, extends eastward into the Dakotas and the temperature has risen throughout this section and the weather has been fair. The pressure is high from the Lake region to the Gulf and Atlantic coasts and rain has been quite general east of the Mississippi river and continues this morning along the middle and north Atlantic coast. It is also raining in Washington and northern Montana, with freezing temperature at Havre.

Fair and warmer weather is indicated for this section tonight, followed by unsettled but generally fair weather Saturday and somewhat lower temperature by night.

RETIRE PLOTTERS SAYS LA FOLLETTE

Wisconsin Senator Bitterly Scores Men Who Tried to Oust Dr. Harvey
Wiley

HE WOULD FIRE WICKERSHAM

Says Attorney General Connived with the McCabe Crowd in Behalf of Interests

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—In a bitter editorial in the current issue of La Follette's Magazine, United States Senator La Follette, republican presidential candidate, demands the retirement of the "plotters" who sought to oust Dr. Harvey Wiley.

In part, La Follette writes: "The charge against Wiley was flimsy and absurd. It was but a pretext to get the vigilant and honest chief chemist, it collapsed under the first broadside of publicity. * * * Solicitor McCabe must go. As long as he remains in the department he will be a constant menace to the public good. * * * Secretary Wilson may be forced to retire. But it would be a sorry perversion of justice to drop Wilson and keep Wickersham. It was Wickersham who connived with the McCabe crowd in recommending that 'condign punishment' be visited upon Dr. Wiley. He has to his credit years of good service to the public in the building up of agriculture that even his record in the Taft administration cannot conceal. Wickersham has not a single achievement to commend him to the public. His is a record of active loyalty to Big Business. * * * Fair dealing to the public demands that 'all' the plotters high and low be removed from the positions of honor and trust which they have besmirched."

MOTOR BOAT CLUB TO SELL HYDROPLANE

At a special meeting of the Hydroplane committee of the La Crosse Motor Boat club which was held this morning it was decided to sell the racer which was to have been entered in the motor boat regatta which was held at Dubuque under the auspices of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association last July. The craft which is a marvel of speed was not fully complete at the time of the regatta and has never had a chance to show its speed against other hydroplanes.

IRISH ENGINEERS REFUSE

DUBLIN, Sept. 22.—Engineers on the Irish Midland railroad refused today to join the general Irish railroad strike, proclaimed last night, unless the order is made to include England too. Secretary Williams of the English Amalgamated Society of Railway servants, says the English unions are not ready to join.

American passengers who arrived at Queenstown on the Celtic from New York and the Arabic from Boston last night are marooned in that city unable to proceed to their destinations.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—For the first time in history tuberculosis has made a ground for divorce. In his complaint, Jacob Steinberg alleges he contracted the disease from his wife.

WHAT IS "KIMMEL"

MICHIGAN TOWN STILL TORN OVER RETURN OF MOD-ERN RIP VAN WINKLE

NILES, Mich., Sept. 22.—George A. Kimmel, who claims to be a former resident of this town, is a modern Rip Van Winkle, returned after thirteen years of wandering so changed that some of his closest friends do not recognize him, according to many of the citizens of Niles.

Today the Kimmel controversy stands where it did the day the man arrived. Some of the residents are sure that he is the true George Kimmel, while others assert that he in no way resembles the former banker. Mrs. Kimmel, after five interviews with the man, claims to be still in doubt as to his identity. Andrew J. Hunt of Arkansas City, Kan., with whom the real Kimmel used to live, and who arrived here yesterday to identify the man, said he was positive he was not George A. Kimmel whom he had known.

NEW RECORD MADE IN SMOKY CITY

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—A new record "crowd" has been established at Forbes Field, where the Bean Eaters and the Pirates are mixing up. The smallest "crowd" in the history of the field, just 1,087 persons, passed through the turnstiles yesterday. Today "Old Cy" Young may pitch and fans may drop their listlessness.

TAFT'S SMILE IS CLOUDED BY WOE

President Frankly Disappointed by Defeat of Reciprocity in Canada

FACES WESTERN INSURGENTS

Political Effect of Defeat Is the Big Question to Be Faced
Now

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 22.—The ghost of gloom, perched on the still corpse of reciprocity, was the unwelcome guest on the special train of President Taft when it reached here today.

Peoria was ablaze with enthusiasm but the presidential party brought little enthusiasm with it. The Taft smile was clouded in an expression of somber seriousness and the usual light step was snuffed out at Kalamazoo by the word that the policy which the president had declared the most important of his administration had been rejected by Canada. "I had looked for a different result," said the president mournfully, "but it takes two to make a bargain, and of course, if Canada declines to accept this agreement we must go on doing business at the same old stand. I am deeply disappointed."

Out to the west today lay the wide reaches of Iowa and Kansas. There the president must face the stalking spirit of republican insurgency in its stronghold. Sunday night he will begin the "winning of the west" at Baldwin, Kan.

What Next? Is Question
But back in Kalamazoo, Mich., the president left the buried hopes of reciprocity, the issue upon which six months ago he offered to rest his future. Practically every insurgent voted against reciprocity in both house and senate. What argument is he to put up to the insurgent constituents? The fact that he carried reciprocity in this country would be the keynote of his defense, but will it avail? These were the questions which pervaded the gloomy atmosphere of the tariff special.

Taft was confident to the last that Laurier and his allies would carry Canada for the reciprocity pact. So confident was he that he predicted at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon that the benefits of reciprocity would be realized within eighteen months. The early returns from Canada which indicated the downfall of reciprocity did not worry him. But amid the bright lights and gay music of the Kalamazoo banquet in his honor, his wide, round smile disappeared in grave serious look as the final word struggled in that settled the fate of the pact.

Political Effect Uncertain
The political effect of the defeat was the big consideration on the Taft train today. "Nothing can be determined along that line yet," declared Secretary Hilles. "We must wait."

But in the minds of all the president's party loomed up the broad stretches of prairie and the long mountain ranges of the west that embrace the next thirty-nine days of the president's trip. Up to today not a day had passed that the Taft audiences had not clamored for a speech on reciprocity and the president had declared "I will talk reciprocity after the Canadian election." The election is over. Reciprocity has been defeated. Undoubtedly the demand for reciprocity speeches will continue. What the president will say in reply to the demand was the bothersome problem today. That the president's enemies, both in and out of the republican party, will claim a great advantage in the defeat of reciprocity was certain.

The president started early on his round of functions today. A breakfast at the Creve Coeur club was the first event on the program. Here he was the guest of Bishop Edmund Dunne of Peoria. An automobile ride about the city and to the country club for luncheon, a reception to the Knights of Columbus at their club house, and a Knights of Columbus banquet at the Coliseum completed the arrangements for the day.

SPANISH STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

All Leaders in Prison Give Way to Threats of Death; Troops Are in Control

MADRID, Sept. 22.—Under pressure from the government, the executive committee of the National Federation of Spanish trade unions called off the general strike today. It is expected the authorities got all the committeemen either actually under arrest or under such effective surveillance that they could be arrested at any time and then threatened them with death unless they did all in their power to break the strike tie up. Troops are still in control of all the principal cities and the constitution remains suspended. It is expected the court martialing of agitators will begin in a day or two.

Cruisers Ordered Out

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 22.—So serious have the strike disturbances at Ferrol become that all Spanish warships at Cadiz and two cruisers at Melilla were ordered there to help the troops and civil guards to restore order.

GAME FISH PLACED IN NEARBY STREAMS

According to the announcement of Congressman John J. Esch who received a statement of the distribution of the game fish in this vicinity from the game department, today, 600 brook trout and 800 black bass have been placed in small streams near Bangor during the past summer. Five hundred black bass have been distributed near Sparta and 300 in Moore's creek near Norwalk.

RAMMED BY STEAMER
WHILE AT ANCHOR

PORT HURON, Mich., Sept. 22.—Twenty-three members of the crew of the Joliet narrowly escaped death early this morning, when that vessel was rammed and sunk in thirty feet of water, in the St. Clair river, opposite this city, by the steamer Phipps.

Most of the crew was taken off in small boats, but two members had to climb into the rigging, being unable to get into the small boats in time. A boat was immediately sent out by the Phipps after the collision and picked up the crew of the sunken vessel. The Joliet was anchored in the middle of the river when struck by the Phipps, downbound.

LOVER OF OLD IS HELD BY POLICE

Former Suitor of Mrs.
Burnham Suspected of Sextuple Murder in Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 22.—The arrest of Antone Donatel, a former suitor of Mrs. A. J. Burnham, as a suspect; the discovery of a milkman who saw a man riding on a bicycle towards the Modern Woodmen's sanitarium at three o'clock last Monday morning, and the finding of a man who saw a stranger loitering about the Burnham home Sunday night, were today's developments in the Wayne-Burnham sextuple murder here.

Whether the hard riding cyclist was the murderer of the two families is the problem the district attorney is endeavoring to solve.

A. J. Burnham, whose wife and children were among the slain, is still held in custody. Rumors that he has made a statement are denied by the police.

The arrest of Donatel on suspicion resulted from statements by Burnham himself. He said that, eight years ago, Mrs. Burnham, then Alice May, was engaged to Donatel, but that she married Burnham after a brief courtship. Since then, Burnham said, Donatel has been considered a friend of the family and has been a frequent caller at the Burnham home.

Investigators are also investigating a statement made by A. W. Marshall, who lives about one hundred yards from the Burnham house. About 12:30 Sunday night Marshall said he saw some one prowling about the Burnham house. The loiterer was a slight man with a dark moustache.

The police are endeavoring to connect this description with the milk man's description of a man seen riding a bicycle towards the sanitarium three hours after Marshall saw the stranger.

Burnham was permitted to go to the cemetery yesterday when the bodies of his wife and two children were buried. His grief was apparently genuine. The bodies of Henry Wayne, his wife and baby were shipped to Wayne's former home near Logansport, Ind.

ELECTION BOOSTS PRICES OF GRAINS

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—There was a lively time today when the grain market opened, the defeat of reciprocity with Canada having a decided effect upon wheat trading in both September and December contracts, advancing the price 1 1/2 cents respectively. It was generally believed here that the pact would win at the polls yesterday. All during the last week the wheat market has been rather inactive, leaders holding off until after the election. Grain now will not be entered free of duty into this country from Canada.

The climb in corn was but 3/4 cent in September contracts; while December trading increased 1/2 cent. In oats, reciprocity's defeat was again noticed when at opening September soared 1 1/2 cents, while December climbed 3/4 cent.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Christiana Steen, who died at her home at 616 Market street Wednesday night, will be held from the residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. Magelsen officiating. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery. Friends please omit flowers.

WILD STAMPEDE TO SELL STOCKS

Not Since Financial Panic of 1907 Has Exchange Been So Excited

STEEL CENTER OF ATTACK

Big Interests Come to Aid of Standard Railroad Shares; Gains Recorded

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Alarmed over the raids on the stock market, growing out of the rumors that the government planned to force reorganization of the United States Steel corporation, J. P. Morgan and the syndicate of bankers having international connections, hurried to the rescue of the stock market.

In the brief period of half an hour, they changed panic to optimism. Not since the financial flurry of 1907, has the power of money been so forcibly manifested on the floor of the stock exchange.

The market opened demoralized. The exchange was flooded with selling orders, and with the opening, conditions bordering on chaos prevailed. Steel common dropped five points in fifteen minutes. Steel preferred fell like lead, and most of the standard railway systems followed suit. The air was filled with wild rumor and reports of impending failures. For the first half hour even the old timers on the exchange were inclined to believe that a panic was impending and could not be averted.

Then the Morgan house began to evidence itself. Brokers usually considered as representative of that firm, began buying the standard railway shares. They were assisted by the floor representatives of the international banking houses and they took all offerings with a nonchalance that indicated the millions behind them. The selling movement was quickly checked, not alone in railways, but in all of the industrials, including Steel. By noon the tone was buoyant and all of the morning losses had been recovered.

For market purposes it was explained that the crusade against Steel was engineered by a noted bear operator and it was semi-officially announced that the big interests behind the corporation have decided to stand pat. They will refuse to dissolve and have the opinion of their eminent counsel that a dissolution suit by the government can be readily defeated. It was stated by persons connected with the management that the company had completed its plan to fight any such action and would welcome it as giving the looked for chance to develop in court testimony to offset the report expected from the Stanley congressional investigating committee, which is expected to be very damaging.

Not since the days of the 1907 financial panic has the stock exchange been so excited as today. Long before the time for the opening, the floor of the exchange was jammed with members, most of whom had commissions to execute. The news from London showed that most of the American list was under pressure there and this added to the apprehension.

As on yesterday, Steel was the center of attraction. Hardly a broker on the floor but had selling orders in the stock of the billion dollar combine and the initial transactions reflected a stampede of holders. There was a wide variation in the opening transactions, the crowd being so large that the price ranged all the way from 54 to 55 1/2 in different parts. At the end of the first fifteen minutes the price of the common stock of the big trust had dropped to 53 1/2, or five points below last night's close. For a time it seemed that a panic would ensue, as Great Northern preferred dropped four points, Northern Pacific 2 1/2 and Canadian Pacific 1 1/2 on the belief that the defeat of reciprocity at yesterday's Canadian elections would materially effect their earnings.

Before conditions got out of hand, however, support came from the big financial houses, and the market became steadier. Then came a recovery in nearly all the issues.

BUILDING READY FOR CIRCUIT COURT

The work of remodeling at the federal building is progressing rapidly and according to Postmaster William B. Tschanner, the United States circuit court room which is undergoing repairs will be finished in time for the September term of court which will set Oct. 2. For some time it was thought that the work could not be completed in time and that it would be necessary to use the state circuit court room in the court house.

CANADA IS OPPOSED TO TRADE PACT

LAURIER DEFEATED

Conservatives Win Big Ma-

In Yesterday's Election

"OPEN DOOR" IS CLOSED

Canada Proposes to Build Up Trade Within Her Own Boundaries

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 22.—Canada will build her trade up within her own boundaries and make trade concessions only to Great Britain.

That is the construction placed by all classes today on yesterday's sweeping victory of the conservatives, when they repudiated reciprocity and swept the Laurier administration out of power. The overwhelming majority against the advocates of the "open door" with the United States is interpreted by the leaders of both parties as indicating absolutely that the people of Canada are unalterably opposed to close trade relations with their nearest neighbor.

While the returns from several districts are still incomplete, the figures here today indicated that the next parliament would be composed of 130 conservatives and 86 liberals, as against 132 liberals and 89 conservatives in the old body. But the liberals lost ground everywhere. Where they carried districts, their majorities were small; where they lost, the conservative majorities were for the most part overwhelming.

Leaders are Amazed

The greatest disappointment for the liberals came in the province of Ontario. Here the liberals hoped at least to hold their own and as the province has 85 seats out of the total membership, it was made the great battle ground. The conservatives carried seventy-one of the districts, a result that amazed even their most sanguine leaders. Manitoba returned a solid conservative delegation of their members, while in the other provinces in the western country seats considered safely liberal were swept into the enemy's fold by the landslide of votes.

The Laurier cabinet received a crushing defeat. Among the members defeated in districts where they believed they were sure to win, were the Minister of Finance W. S. Fielding, Minister of Customs William Patterson, Minister of Railways George P. Graham, Minister of Labor MacKenzie King, responsible for the anti-trust law; Minister of Militia Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Agriculture Sidney Fisher and Solicitor General Jacques Bureau.

Laurier to Retire

A big feature of the result of the election was the gaining by the conservatives of two seats in the agricultural province of Saskatchewan, supposed to be almost unanimous for reciprocity.

Laurier announced during the campaign that of the liberals were defeated he would retire from public life.

Verdict of People

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 22.—"The verdict of the people of Canada was in no wise dictated by any spirit of unfriendliness to the great neighboring republic," declared Premier-to-be Robert L. Borden, leader of the conservatives in discussing the overwhelming defeat of the liberal party and its reciprocity program today. "No such spirit exists. In rejecting reciprocity Canada has simply affirmed her adherence to a policy of national development that she has pursued for years. The government without mandate from the people, undertook to reverse that policy, and upon submitting their action to the people, were defeated."

LA CROSSE WOMAN SEES BIG STRIKE

Miss Olga Walloe Tells of Suffering in England at Time of Labor Troubles

MAKES A TRIP TO NORWAY

Rugged Beauties of Scandinavia Described in Letter Written on Ocean Liner

Miss Olga Walloe, a teacher in the Lincoln school, has returned from a summer vacation trip abroad. For The Tribune she has written a description of her voyage and the places which she visited, including a delightful description of the varied beauties of Norway and the points of interest of other lands which she saw in her tour. She returned through England in the midst of the big strike in the British Isles and the suffering she saw and the discomforts she was compelled to endure make an interesting story. Her letter is as follows:

ON BOARD S. S. "CELTIC," Aug. 20, 11.—When I started on my vacation trip this summer, I wished my friends could share with me the novel and interesting experience of a trip abroad, and I take this opportunity of sharing my impressions of the journey.

To those who have been abroad many times, my narrative may seem too detailed, but I wish to share the pleasant memory of my trip from the very beginning, and that takes me back to the morning of June 15th, when my niece and I arrived at New York.

We took a ferry boat from Hoboken to our ship lying at anchor in the harbor there. At the ferry, a young lad was in waiting to carry our suit cases. I was somewhat reluctant to have him, but he assured me he was authorized to do this for boat passengers. I said, "presume you see many queer happenings, working here as you do, helping all kinds of foreigners on their coming and going?" Then he told an incident which had happened a few days since. An Italian immigrant landed there, he was unable to speak or understand English, the man knew he was to board a train from New York, and was determined to get on the first train he saw, regardless of where it was going. When they explained to him he must wait, and they would put him on the one which would carry him to his destination, he became desperate, and it required three policemen to hold him, from boarding the wrong train. When I heard this related, it seemed comical to me then, but since I have been a stranger in a strange land myself, it seems only pathetic.

As soon as we got on board ship, we were shown to our cabin, and I found a dozen or more "steamer letters" from friends awaiting me, these kept me from feeling lonely as I stood on deck when the ship sailed away, and I saw what looked like a cloudburst of handkerchiefs waving "good bye" to friends.

The weather was ideal, we sailed away in the sunshine.

A hint to inexperienced travelers, like myself, I will mention two important items one should attend to, as quickly as possible, i. e., rent a steamer chair and select a desirable place for it on deck, and arrange for temperature both here and in California. Since his return he has been forced to remain at home several days because of illness.

a bath hour while on board as "first come, first served," holds here.

Three days out, the sea still remained calm and I was beginning to wish we might have some rough weather for a change. As we neared the banks of Newfoundland, I soon had that wish granted, the fog horn sounded all night, and next day we had rough sea aplenty. Many of the passengers began to look "unhappy"—and one by one, they disappeared. I leaned over the ship railing where I spent a few hours, hating everybody and everything generally. People laugh when the word "sea-sick" is mentioned, but I'll never again laugh at anyone enduring that horror. It is not a bit funny for those who are being "rocked" in the cradle of the deep, under such circumstances.

After that, we had rather a rough, stormy voyage, but were nicely and pleasantly entertained along the way; we almost forgot the discomforts of sea and air.

The "Atlantic Daily" was published on board ship; most of it was printed ere we left New York, except the date and a few cable messages.

One evening we had a masquerade, June 22nd, we celebrated the coronation; but what I enjoyed most of all, was Captain's night; for this occasion, the tables were decorated with fancy cakes, favors and little flags at each plate. It was a wild night outside, and an extra big, rollicking wave came along, and away sailed all the dishes and decorations. It was a clean sweep off the tables! There were hundreds of dishes broken. After that, there was racks used to keep the dishes on the tables. These dinners were dressy affairs, ladies came trailing in, and sparkling with diamonds. In spite of all the gaiety and entertainments, we were all eagerly longing for the sight of land. The Orkney Islands was the first we saw, next, we feasted our land hungry eyes on the black shores of Scotland.

After a day or two on the North sea, we saw Norway. The mountains loomed dark and frowning in the distance, but as we came nearer and saw the beauty and grandeur of all—one mountain range after another—a feeling of wonder and awe comes to one, as one sees the snow crowned peaks towering among the pine clad ones, with the sunshine and shadows, shimmering here or darkling there, and the little red-roofed houses nestling along the rocky, narrow shores, it looks very still, and a peace and calm broods over all. An indescribable feeling of sadness and longing comes to one's heart, and a sense of the infinite to one's soul, as one gazes on those heaven towering, wondrous mountains.

The last night ere arriving at Christiania, we did not retire, we were too interested in looking at the beautiful scenery along the shores of Norway. The insailing at Christiania Fjord, beggars all description.

When we arrived at the wharf at Christiania, it was quite touching to see all the eager waiting faces, smiling "Welcome home" to dear ones.

After twelve days on the ocean, I found I was land sick! That is a very queer sensation, the ground seems to rock like the ship did, and one staggers along like one intoxicated. I hastened away to visit my aunt who lives farther north at a small country station. There, I had a quiet, happy, restful time. It is beautiful in that vicinity, too—with mountains all around and such glorious pine trees.

I saw some wonderful sunsets in Norway, the purple shadows settling softly over the more distant mountains, and a pink and golden haze lighting the tops of others. Imagine, if you can, the evening peace and quiet enfolding the valleys; the only sound to break the stillness, was the tinkle of a cowbell heard in the distance. The sun set at 10 p. m. and rose again at three o'clock in the morning. It seemed very strange to go to bed by daylight at 11 p. m. or midnight.

The second morning I was there, I woke to see the sun shining brightly, the birds singing. I began to dress hurriedly, feeling chagrined to oversleep, the second morning I was there; I looked at my watch to see how late I really was—and found it was three o'clock in the morning.

I heard the cuckoo calling, and it certainly is a jolly, friendly sound.

The wild birds of Norway are not brightly colored as ours, but they sing very sweetly. I heard the real skylark, and that a treat never to be forgotten; it sings as it flies up and up, away out of sight in the sky—the song—of such wondrously sweet melodies, comes floating and rippling back, as though straight out of Heaven itself! I am sure I can read Shelly's poem about the skylark, with appreciation, hereafter.

I have thought if I ever visited foreign lands, I wished to learn something of the way the people live, I mean the people who make up the heart beat of a country, those who till the soil, and seem to be part of the country itself, and really belong there. I visited in many such homes and found the conditions and people rather crude and primitive to me, their lives seemed very limited, but they appeared stolid and content with it all.

The children in the country are exceedingly quaint, quiet and modest; they certainly put our American children to shame, where politeness and obedience are concerned. The poorest little country lad will take off his hat when greeting anyone, and the little girls courtesy in the dearest way! It was a real pleasure to me to see the respect they show their parents.

I spent a week at Christiania, it is a very up-to-date city. I was told the bon ton people go to their country homes or summer resorts, so there is little of interest going on during the summer months. I visited many beautiful parks and pleasure places there. Saw many important buildings. I was especially interested in seeing the University and Medical college, where my father studied, years ago. The buildings are old and small, but when I think of the clever men who graduated from there, the buildings seemed imposing enough to me.

It seems an injustice to Christiania and Norway in general for me to give this "birds eye" view, as it were, of what I saw, but in six weeks' time, one can't do much real comprehensive sight-seeing, and rest, too, along the way. My many side trips by carriage and auto, I will not dwell upon here, but one trip, I must mention, by train from Christiania to Bergen, through the most wonderful scenery in Norway, one must see that to realize the beauty of it all. It took the government ten years' time to build this road, and anyone who has traveled by it, can understand it must have required the most skilful engineers to work out such a plan, the blasting of tunnels through the base of those mountains seems almost unbelievable. I will not try to describe the scenery along the way, I could not do it justice.

From Bergen, I sailed across the North Sea to Newcastle, Eng. From there, I went by train across England to Liverpool. I saw the cozy farms enclosed by hawthorn hedges, instead of fences. There was an air of neatness and thrift agreeable to note, all through the English countryside.

I came to Liverpool at a most unfortunate time, in the midst of a serious strike, but there surely was some deep rooted misery accountable for the heart rending sights I saw, during my stay there. Such fearful poverty among women and children. I never imagined could exist. The utterly hopeless look of them. I met a man who is a member of the poor commissioners, and the things he told me about the labor conditions and wages, were certainly appalling. It must breed criminalism and hatred in the hearts of the down trodden poor. My heart ached for the little children I saw on the streets of Liverpool—and the women—the mothers—were a pitiful sight. I thanked fortune, I was an American citizen and felt as though I wished I might take the poor children and women home to America and give them a chance to live.

Every industry is affected by the strike. I was told, the ship I booked for was not to sail, but I finally succeeded in getting my passage transferred to the "Celtic," a White Star Royal Mail steamer which had not entered harbor and therefore was not among the strikers. We were protected by a squad of soldiers when driving to the docks. I am very thankful to be on board this ship, but we are suffering the greatest inconveniences imaginable, there are passengers from four ships here crowded together in the steerage rooms, they are called "second cabin" on this trip, but it is steerage just the same. I am making the best of it, with hundreds of other women. Three young ladies and I have slept on deck every night, as we felt we could not endure being in our cabins at night.

I am certainly getting my money's worth of sea air. They tell us we will land in New York Tuesday morning, and I venture to say, that never since the landing of the "Mayflower" will there a shipload of people so glad to see land.

I have met many pleasant, interesting people during my travels, and I carry home the memory of kindly smiles and words of cheer along the way.

The summer vacation seems like a beautiful dream now, and every moment I am sailing away from it, but ahead, is the home land—and to me it seems the place on earth most desirable. OLGA WOLLOE.

ADVERTISING IS ECONOMY

In an address delivered before the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs Helen Mar Shaw-Thompson, of the staff of the Mahin Advertising company, answered the charge that advertising contributes to the high cost of living because the ultimate consumer foots the bill. This accusation was irresponsible until it was adopted by the Lodge committee which investigated cost of living in Massachusetts, and it may be said that the arguments which this committee put forth were so illogical as to create no impression per se, their only weight being that carried by the official character of the body. At any rate, whatever, semblance of reason the committee presented was completely annihilated by the address which we are discussing.

Says Mrs. Thompson: "I have never once known of an advertiser who increased the retail price of his article one penny in order to pay for the advertising of it."

There are three reasons why the dealer does not add the cost of advertising to the price of the advertised article.

One is that, excepting in cases of special articles in which he has no competition, or special qualities, his non-advertising competitor might undersell him, and he would merely be advertising himself as charging too much.

Another is that, in the case of a storekeeper, the advertised article, if the price is right, attracts to the store patrons who buy largely in other lines.

The third is that, by increasing the number of sales through his advertising, he enables himself to sell at a price even lower than the current price, the volume of business making good profit possible on a smaller margin.

Mrs. Thompson shows that, while the cost of advertising is added to the general business expense, it really is an economy instead of added expense because it results in a more than compensating reduction in the cost of distribution, and because by increasing the volume of business it lowers the figure that may be accepted as a reasonable profit.

She shows how the purchaser can save money in buying advertised goods of quality; why advertised goods have to be better in quality;
how advertising protects the consumer against fraud, inferior quality and exorbitant prices; why advertising has not added to the cost of living; how advertising has been a benefit to humanity, and how it has standardized prices and elevated the standards of civilization.

Below we reproduce some pertinent excerpts from Mrs. Thompson's address:

"The question for us to answer is this:

"Is the advertising cost an unnecessary expense to the consumer or is it an economy?"

"Do the goods he buys cost more, because of the advertising, or do they cost less?"

"A pertinent example is found in a letter by Wm. H. Ingersoll, of the Ingersoll Watch company, to the editor of the New York Times. The writer says:

"The consumer of any article always bears two distinct items of cost when he buys it. The first of these is the cost of production. The second is the cost of getting it from the producer to the consumer. Advertising has taken the large place that it has, in the second of these two costs, because it reduces the cost of distributing goods and therefore reduces the total cost to the consumer, or more frequently than otherwise accomplishes this. A large enough market to make the dollar watch a possibility would not have been attainable except through advertising, yet this article has saved money to millions of those who have purchased."

"Granting, as we do, that the consumer pays the cost of advertising, what is that cost?"

"The report of the Massachusetts Commission gives place to a statement by the editor of Printer's Ink which is appropriate here:

"Advertising is distribution expense, and is supplanting the long-standing distribution expense of immense sales staffs and elaborate expense accounts. People naturally take the cost of traveling salesmen, branch organizations and all complicated and expensive machinery of sales as a perfectly legiti-mate and necessary expense. So it has been until advertising has supplanted it, largely for the very simple and mutually beneficial reason that it decreases distribution expense. Salesmen do not have to make one-third the number of trips they used to make, nor do they have to spend a lot of money for dinners, entertainment and other things to persuade and even to bribe dealers and jobbers to buy their brand of goods. They now use the economical means of printers' ink to talk directly to the consumer."

"Advertising," says Mr. Mahin, "decreases the cost of living by bringing the luxuries of our forefathers within the income that formerly obtained only bare necessities."

"The dealer who handles standard advertised goods * * * sells them on smaller margins and makes more money himself."

"This is due to the economy resulting from the goods moving faster."

"People know them and spend much less time in shopping for them, thus saving on clerk hire."

"The dealer does not need to use as much capital in advertised goods because they move faster. He saves also on his rent because advertised goods do not stay so long on his shelves."

"He can buy in larger quantities and save on freight and cartage and handling."

"The Welch Grape Juice company also show that advertising has lessened the cost of production and in consequence, has increased the dealer's profits. I quote from an article by Mr. Edgar T. Welch:

"Good advertising is an investment. One essential of good advertising is persistency. Only by advertising can we secure a wide distribution. Only with a wide distribution can we maintain low prices."

"In 1897, the first year we located in the Chautauqua grape belt, we paid $10.00 per ton for grapes.
The output was 50,000 gallons. We have become increasingly large factors in the Concord grape market.
We insist upon, and get the very pick of the crop. We pay more than others. With us making larger and larger purchases annually, and taking our choice of the grapes, the price has steadily gone higher. In October, 1910, we paid $43.00 and over per ton. We have a million and a quarter gallons of grape juice for the 1911 business."

"Yet Welch's Grape juice is sold to the trade today at lower prices than in 1898. And we are paying $33.00 and more per ton over the 1898 price for grapes."

"Mr. Leonard H. Frailey, secretary of the Joseph Campbell Company, affirms, 'Quality is the real basis of success on any article, and no sane business man would spend a considerable sum of money advertising a product which did not repeat with the consumer. Quality, alone, will accomplish this. In fact advertising standardizes quality in the public mind.'"

"The greatest possible testimony that advertising is an economy to the consumer is the fact that a great majority of the women purchasers of the world favor advertised goods."

So many men seem to want to work out their road tax with oratory.

It's the worker who achieves success, not the workee.

Probably the significance of a wink has been exaggerated more than anything else.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Rain After Drought

All night the small feet of the rain
Within the garden ran.
And gentle fingers tapped the pain
Until the dawn began.

The rill-like voices called and sung
The slanting roof beside:
"The children of the clouds have come;

"Awake! awake!" they cried.

"Weep no more the drooping rose
Nor mourn the thirsting tree.
The little children of the storm
Have gained their liberty."

All night the small feet of the rain
About my garden ran.
Their rill-like voices called and cried
Until the dawn began.

Dora Sigerson Shorter, in New Westminster Gazette.

Five Hours' Difference

"How is that lazy son of Biddad's getting along now that he's gone to London?" asked Hicks. "Showing any signs of a brace?"

"I guess so," returned Wattles.
"His father showed me a letter the other day, and the kid says he's up every morning at 6 o'clock."

"London time or New York?" asked Hicks.—Harper's Weekly.

She Knew It

"I have decided to quit this company tonight," said the prima donna, as she flounced into the manager's office.

"But, my dear Miss Rivington," he protested, "we have nobody to take your place."

"That's why I have decided to quit tonight."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sign Out of Date

When the blind woman who plays the accordion saw the genial looking man stop to read her placard she quickened her tune in the expectation that he was going to give her some money, but he gave advice instead.

Said he: "Have you read that sign of yours lately?"

She said she had not.

"Well," said he, "you'd better, and then have it edited. It is dated six years ago and says you have six small children dependent upon your efforts with this instrument for support. Six years works wonders in children, and they must be pretty lusty youngsters by this time. Change that date to 1911."

Down to Fine Points

Claus A. Spreckles, the sugar re-finer, was talking in New York about economies in the sugar trade.

"We work very economically," Mr.
Spreckles said, "but we haven't got things down to such a fine point as some folks would have you believe.
We are not quite so economical, in fact, as the lady with the pet cat."

"A lady who owned a tortoise shell cat called her grocer up one morning and gave her usual economical order—an order for dried beans, hominy, yesterday's bread and so forth—and she concluded with a request for one cent's worth of cat's meat."

"The grocer sighed, for his order would have to be delivered three miles away. But as he was entering the items in his order book the lady called him up again.

"Mr. Sands," she said, 'oh, Mr.
Sands!'"

"Yes, mad'am."

"Mr. Sands, I want to cancel that order for cat's meat. The cat's just caught a bird."—Washington Star.

POSLAM STOPS ALL ITCHING

Relieves Immediately and Quickly
Cures All Skin Diseases

The terrible itching attending eczema and other skin diseases, which suffers sleepless nights and robs sufferers of repose, is stopped at once by Poslam. Pleasant slumber comes as a welcome relief from distress.
Soon a complete cure is effected, for the healing powers of Poslam are marvelous.

Poslam is a perfect antiseptic, kills germ life and contains nothing to injure the most delicate skin. Its success is greater than that of anything used for similar purposes.

Acne, barbers' itch, teeter and like diseases yield to it readily. Pimples and minor blemishes are eradicated after a few applications; the complexion, red noses, etc., being cleared over night.

Poslam is sold for 50 cents by Chas. A. Beyschlag, C. N. Euler, Herberd & Co., and all druggists.
Or the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York, will send a sample free to anyone who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in twenty-four hours.

Poslam Soap is delightful for every cleansing purpose, and being medicated with Poslam, is rendered antiseptic, preventing infection.

EMERSON HOUGH

Author of 34-40 ON FIGHT,

THE MISSISSIPPI DUBBLE, ETC.

Copyright, 1910, The Bolds-Merrill Company

A tall figure was visible in the half light, as the clear voice of the gentleman so described went on.

"Sir, and gentlemen, there is no Kentuckian—no, nor any man from any other state here present—who could suffer this matter to conclude just as it is now. This is not all.
This matter but begins. We have invited to attend us a lady whose activities we considered dangerous—that is the plain truth of it, and we all knew it, and she may know it.
Instead of that, we find here with us now a woman in distress. Which of us would have the courage to endure with equal equanimity that which she faces now? It has already been said here that we have been not unmindful of the plans of this lady, not wholly unacquainted with her history. We know that although a revolutionist at heart, an alien on our shores, her purposes have been clean, have been noble.
Would to God we had more such in our own country! But now, in a plan which has proved wholly futile before her time, which would prove futile after it, even though backed by the wealth of a nation—she has failed, not to our ruin, but to her own."

"It is not without my knowledge that this lady at one time, according to popular report, was asked to undertake a journey which later resulted in considerable personal inconvenience, not to say indignity, to herself. Is there no way, gentlemen, in which, especially in consideration of her present material circumstances, this government—I mean to say this country—can make some amends for that?"

"Madam," began the leader at the head of the table, "I did not predict wrongly regarding our friend from Kentucky; but in reply to him, I myself must say, as I have already said, we are but a simple republic—all our acts must be open and known. What special fund, my dear sir—this to the speaker, who still retained his position—in what manner, indeed, could this be arranged?"

"In the easiest way in the world," rejoined the Kentuckian. "This lady, whatever her nationality, is at heart much identified with the cause of Hungary, which she has been so good as to confuse with our own cause here in America. Her idea is to advance democracy—and to advance pure nationalism. Very well.
We have already invited Louis Kossuth to come to America as the guest of this country. Even now one of the vessels of our navy is approaching his port of exile in Turkey to carry him hither. In the entertainment of Louis Kossuth large sums of money will be—and it is proper that they should be—expended. The people demand it. The dignity of this nation must be maintained. Popular approval will meet the proper expenditures for any such entertainment."

"Now then, gentlemen"—and he raised an argumentative forefinger
—"there must be committees of entertainment; there must be those able to interpret, those competent to arrange large plans, and to do so courteously, with dignity." He bowed toward the somewhat dejected
who scarce ventured to raise her eyes to his, startled as she was by the sudden turn of events.

"Now, Sir, we all understand this is wholly unofficial and informal;
we understand that there is no special fund which could be devoted to any such purpose as I have suggested—unless it were precisely this fund for the Kossuth entertainment!
Gentlemen, it is not the part of a host to set a limit upon the visit of a guest. It is my belief that Kossuth will remain on these shores for at least ten years, and that he will need entertainment for each of those ten years at least!" A gentle applause met this speech. The speaker himself smiled as he went on.

"For a competent committee head, charged with the duty of making that entertainment gracious and dignified and worthy alike of the Old World and the New, I should think that an annual expenditure of, say, eight thousand or ten thousand dollars, would not be inadequate! If this lady, whose kind heart and brilliant mind, as our honored friend has said, both have been shown before us today—if she would agree—if she would accept—some such provision as this from this fund, I am entirely clear in my own mind as to both the wisdom and the absolute propriety of extending this offer to her!"

He sat down. Laughter and applause met his remarks. Thus, and gallantly, did Kentucky make amends.

"Madam," at length interrogated the tall man at the head of the table, bending upon her his gaze, as did all these other grave figures present—"provided this matter might be arranged, would it be within your pleasure to accept some such remuneration as that, for services which should be given quite within your wishes? I need not say," he added, turning his gaze along each side of the long table, "that this is something which, in view of all circumstances, to me also seems quite within dignity, decency and absolute public propriety."

But Josephine St. Auban could make no reply. Her face was hidden in her hands, and only her heaving shoulders showed the sudden emotion which had swept upon her overstrained soul. At last she felt a gentle hand touch hers. She raised her head as, one after another, these men approached, each extending his hand to her and bowing in salutation. Presently the room was deserted.

In the hall the gentleman from Kentucky passed his arm within that of a tall man, obviously from the North.

"I have just got word within the week of the arrival of a daughter at my own home out in Kentucky," said he. "I am in a position to understand all and several the statements in Exhibit A, my dear Sir!
The darling!"

"But what a woman—what a woman!" he went on meditatively.
"Sir, if I were a single man, as I am a married man, I should offer to her, upon the spot, a union, now and forever, one and inseparable!"

Mrs. Kidd, formerly Miss Tillie Sholz of this place, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Dubuque Saturday. Friends here hope for her speedy recovery.

At the home of Mrs. Pupke of Kader, Ia., on Thursday, occurred the marriage of her daughter, Louise, to Mr. H. J. Muschewski of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Franke, in the presence of relatives and near friends. The bride wore a beautiful dress of pink marquessette and the groom, conventional black. These young people are well known in Elkader. Mr. Muschewski came to our little city a few months ago and with his brother, as partner, bought the Gutten-berg Press. Friends wish this couple a long and prosperous married life.

Miss Majorie Smith, who has been spending several weeks at the Fred Smith home, returned to Cassville, Wis., Saturday to resume her studies in the high school.

A number of Elkader young people took in the dance at this place Saturday evening. A pleasant time is the report of all who attended.

which has been undergoing repairs at Dubuque, is again making daily trips.

S. Horry of Niagara Falls, owner of our electric light plant, is visiting his brother, Robert, this week.

The reception held at the high school Friday was largely attended and all report a pleasant time.

The Misses Chapin, Drensen and Sherwood, visited Dubuque Saturday, via steamer Eclipse.

The factories were closed down Monday, due to the hard storm of Sunday evening.

Mr. Harden and family arrived here Saturday to take possession of the drug store, formerly occupied by J. H. Frost.

Quite a crowd from here went to Dubuque Monday on the steamer Eclipse.

Lou Zearly of Garber, was seen

CUBS UNABLE TO GAIN ON GIANTS

Both Split in Double Headers and Take Slight Drop; Pirates Get Beansters

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburg 4, Boston 3

PITTSBURG, Sept. 22.—The Pirates beat Boston yesterday, 4 to 3. With two men down in the eighth, McKechnie beat out an infield roller and on the play Campbell and Wagner scored with the tying and winning runs. Score: R H E Pittsburg . . . 00200002x—4 9 0 Boston . . . 000111000—3 8 2 Batteries—Cannitz and Simon; Donnelly and Kling.

Cincinnati 4-0, Brooklyn 3-4

CINCINNATI, Sept. 22.—The Reds and Brooklyn played twenty innings, the home team winning the first game, 4 to 3, after fifteen exciting rounds, while the visitors captured the second, 4 to 0, in five innings, when it was stopped by darkness. Scores: R H E Cincinnati . . . 000000000—4 18 2 Brooklyn . . . 010100010000000—3 11 1 Batteries—Compton, Suggs and McLean; Rucker, Knetzer and Erwin.

Second game—R H E Cincinnati . . . 00000—0 3 2 Brooklyn . . . 20200—4 4 0

Game called because of darkness.

Batteries—Benton, McLean and Severoid; Knetzer and Miller.

Philadelphia 4-2, Chicago 0-9

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The Cubs and Phillies broke even again. As the Giants did likewise the champs still are seven games behind. Alexander pitched his fourth successive shutout in the opener, beating the Cubs, 4 to 0. A home run by Saer with the bases full routed Chalmers in the second game and the Cubs won, 9 to 2. Scores: R H E Chicago . . . 000000000—0 4 1 Philadelphia . . . 000020011—4 10 1 Batteries—Reulbach and Graham; Alexander and Madden.

Second game—R H E Chicago . . . 00404010x—9 8 1 Philadelphia . . . 000000002—2 9 4 Batteries—Smith and Archer; Chalmers, Curtis and Cotter.

New York 3-7, St. Louis 2-8

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—McGraw's Giants broke even with the Cardinals in a double-header. In the first game the Giants made some rank errors. Harmon pitched for St. Louis and was very wild. Steele started the second battle for St. Louis and Greene Dale, a St. Louis boy, took his place and showed up well, fanning Larry Doyle after Larry had three balls, with two on. Scores: R H E St. Louis . . . 001000001—2 6 1 New York . . . 001010100—3 6 4 Batteries—Harmon and Bliss; Wiltse, Mathewson, Stanley and Meyers.

Second game—R H E St. Louis . . . 32003000x—8 12 0 New York . . . 001120102—7 10 1 Batteries—Steele, Dale and Wingo; Maxwell, Meyers and Hartley.

BADGER SQUAD IS PROMISING

Forty Candidates Report to Coach Richards; U. of W. Will Have Strong Team

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—A squad of forty men reported to Coach Richards on Wednesday morning for the first day of real practice. This is the best showing that has been made at Wisconsin since "the good old days before the reform." Practically all the men are in fine condition, ready to start regular work at once, and with few exceptions, are eligible, something that has been unheard of at Wisconsin for years. Nine "W" men were working on Wednesday, Capt. Busey, Pierce, Samp, Neprud, Moll, Bransted, Hoefel and Mackmiller. Among other promising candidates are Castle and Schley, old Milwaukee West Division stars; Gilbert, Wernicke and Chambers of last year's team, Bright of the 1910 freshmen team, who was ineligible last year, and Tormey, Heiman, Butler, Van Riper, Mehlig, Alexander, Wood, Van Ghent and Rusht of last year's freshmen. Lake, a member of the 1911 track team, Banker and Kietzman, also reported.

The entire squad was completely equipped with new suits, pads, shoes, etc., and makes a business

Cleveland won the game in the fourth inning, when three runs were scored on two singles, a triple and Ball's home run. Score: R H E Cleveland . . . 100000000—1 8 4 Boston . . . 100303100—8 14 0 Batteries—Quinn, Hoffman and Williams; Mitchell and Easterly.

Philadelphia 7, St. Louis 4

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—The Athletics beat St. Louis easily 7 to 4. Nelson was knocked out of the box in the second, and Elmer Brown who succeeded him, was found for five runs in the fourth. Score: R H E Philadelphia . . . 02050000x—7 10 0 St. Louis . . . 010000120—4 8 2 Batteries—Morgan and Livingston; Nelson, E. Brown, Mitchell and Clarke.

Detroit 2, Boston 1

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—The Tigers and Red Sox had another thrilling struggle, which was marred by loose fielding on both sides, the Tigers winning, 2 to 1. Score: R H E Boston . . . 000000010—1 6 4 Detroit . . . 100000100—2 5 3 Batteries—O'Brien and Williams; Mullin and Stange.

like appearance. Assistant Coach Prep White voiced the sentiment of all, when he said on leaving the field. "This looks like business."

Practice is to be held twice a day until the 28th, when recitations start.

Coach Richards started practice Wednesday morning with a short talk to the team, telling the men of his plans and giving them the necessary instructions. Falling on the ball, running down punts, tackling the dummy, and kicking occupied the men's time during both morning and afternoon practice. The old tackling dummy, which has served since the glorious days of Phil King, breathed its last during the morning, when Big Pete Pierce completely demolished it with a fierce diving tackle. In the afternoon two brand new dummies were used and had to stand for some fierce treatment.

SPORTOGRAPHS

There's a peach of a place just under the shadow of Cogan's bluff for planting that pennant pole—and that's just about where it will rest.

Of course, there are a lot of "ifs" but it's a mighty good 2 to 1 bet the Cubs never overtake the McGraw bunch for the 1911 rag.

Both the Giants and the Cubs split even in yesterday's double-headers, so the Polo grounders remain full games in the lead.

Alexander the Great held the Cubs to four hits in the first set-to, while Curtis, Chalmers and Stanley failed to hold them at all in the second.

After Mathewson in and saved the first game for the Giants, McGraw got so chummy he sent in Bert Maxwell, a Birmingham recruit, to pitch the second, which the Cardinals won, 8 to 7.

The Reds and Trolley Dodgers battled full fifteen innings in their first, the Reds winning, 4 to 3. In the five inning second game, the Infants copied by 4 to 0.

Boston was beaten again by the Pirates—which was nothing to comment about.

Although knocked out for five minutes by a hot liner from Williams' bat, Mitchell returned to the fray and helped the Naps win from the Yankees by 8 to 1.

Detroit won a game—honest to goodness. Mullen held the Speed Boys to five hits, while errors gave the Tigers two runs, one more than enough to win.

Although they did not need it, the world's champions kept their hands in by beating the Browns, 7 to 4. Barry got three hits and stole one base.

Jack Sheridan, permanently retired as American league umpire, has been presented with a "medal of honor." Some National league magazines have "cans they would like to present to some of their arbiters."

Happy New Year, Mawruss! Enter the football gladiator. Bresnahan has signed to manage the Cardinals for five years.

Monte Attell and Johnny Daly, bantams, will fight in New Orleans Oct. 2.

Eastern league season closes Sunday, with Rochester again out in front of the bunch.

Catcher Jack Adams of Memphis and Outfielder Dave Callahan of New Orleans joined the Clevelandists this week.

Massachusetts and Rhode Island golfers will hold an interstate championship team match at Agawan tomorrow.

Piping Rock, L. I., Kennel club will hold its annual bench show tomorrow, and some of the fanciest dogs in the country are entered.

A "yellow hope" has developed in the person of Young Togo, a Japanese boxer, who has lately been raging through the honorable west.

Non-Conformist churchmen of England will hold a pow-wow next week to devise means for stopping the Jack Johnson-Bombardier Wells fight.

Porky Flynn, the Boston heavyweight, and Tony Ross, the game Italian scrapper, have been matched to go ten rounds at a New York club Tuesday.

Battling Hurley of New Jersey and Young Sammy Smith of Philadelphia will meet in a ten round match in New York on Monday evening, and an exciting fight is expected.

New Polo Athletic association of New York will open its doors tonight, with a ten round affair between Young Otto and Denny Franklin, lightweights, as the main attraction.

There ought to be something doing at Celtic Park, New York, on Sunday, when the Galway Athletic club will engineer a Gaelic football match between teams representing Kerry and Kilkenny.

A big invasion of American athletics is headed toward Canada today to take part in the Dominion championships, which will be decided tomorrow. Both of the big New York clubs have sent strong teams.

In spite of a quiet campaign on the part of undergraduates and alumni to secure the restoration of football at Columbia, President Luller remains obdurate and it is unlikely that a Blue and White eleven will be ever be seen on a gridiron again.

An international boxing match causing a lot of excitement among the New York fans—Not!—is that scheduled for this evening between Joey Smith of London, England, and Tommy Ginty of New York. The Brighton Beach A. C., Coney Island, will stage the mill.

Jim Stewart, who is going to try his hand at meeting the heavyweights again, has been acting as sparring partner for Kid McCoy, who has been working at Cos Cob, Conn., to get into shape for his two fights, the first with Kid Ely tonight and the second with Sailor Burke Monday night.

Until federal aid for the building of interstate highways has been secured, the American Automobile association will hold its annual conventions in Washington. The fourth national convention will be held in the national capital in December, giving the delegates a chance to mingle with the lawmakers.

Admirers of Frank Schulte, the heavy hitting rightfielder for the Cubs, believe that he will smash all records for home runs this season. John Freeman established a major league record for complete circuits in 1889, when he made Washington famous by slamming out twenty-five drives of the home-run variety. Mr. Schulte is now about up to the mark set by Freeman.

The aviation meet on Long Island, beginning tomorrow, may be the last big event of its kind for some time to come. All of the recent tournaments of the airmen have been financial failures and promoters are growing wary of the game. It is possible that the Nassau Boulevard aerodrome may be the scene next spring and summer of a perpetual meet, where New Yorkers may see the birdmen in practice flights almost any old time.

Yale oarsmen began their practice this week, but minus the services of John Kennedy, who has been coach of the Eli crews for thirteen years. Kennedy's withdrawal has been a severe shock to the officials and students, and although every effort has been made to have him change his mind he remains obdurate and declines to handle the oarsmen again. It is thought some other university has made Kennedy a better offer.

PICKS JOE JACKSON AS STAR HITTER

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Joe Jackson is giving the worthy Tyrus Cobb of Detroit a close run for the batting honors this season. Oscar Stange, said to be one of the leagues best backstoppers, maintains that Jackson is no flash in the pan but is about as good a hitter as Ty Cobb.

"Jackson is probably as great a hitter as Cobb, but when that is said all has been said. He is not as fast as is Cobb and he can't compare with him in any way as a base runner."

KILL ALL THE FLIES!

Habits of the Flies

As soon as the fly issues from the pupal sheath—the tiny "cocoon" in which it has transformed from its maggot stage—it begins to feed. While transforming, it has subsisted on its own fat cells, and it is ravenously hungry. With a remarkable sense of smell, it can immediately catch the odor of food great distances away, and seeks the kitchen, the dining room, persistently. Readers of The Tribune who are so unfortunate as to eat in ill-kept restaurants, this summer, need little information regarding that, and they will appreciate the story told by Dr. Leland O. Howard of the men who entered a dimly lighted railway restaurant and asked for a "piece of that huckleberry pie"—only to be told that it was supposed to be custard pie!

A Lover of Bad Smells

But the fly's idea of well scented food undoubtedly differs from ours. It leads the fly to the slop bucket, the garbage pail, and all sorts of unmentionable filth, where it can pick up disease germs to carry them to the kitchens aforesaid.

The fly eats only by day, sleeping by night. It is not especially fond of bright sunlight, nor of great darkness, but prefers a porch or room out of the sun's direct rays.

The fly's digestive organs are so simple that food passes through them without difficulty. It does not stop with three meals a day, but feeds continually. It is not only an alert germ carrier, but also never wearying.

Color Preference

A number of Frenchmen have been experimenting with the color preferences of flies, with a view to seeing what color would best keep them away during fly season. Galli-Valerio found that the fly preferred colors in the following order: Clear green, rose, clear yellow, azure, clear red, dark gray and white. The colors which flies liked least were blue, pale violet, dark brown and lemon yellow.

Fly Specks

As the fly's digestive process is so simple, it can keep on laying fly specks in great numbers, and these, if they are laid on the food we eat, by a fly which has eaten of matter containing disease germs, can and will bear these dangerous germs into our systems.

Major N. Faichnie says that he found flies each making fifty specks in twenty-four hours. Doctor Cobb, the great photographer of flies, found in these excremental deposits of flies—whose danger we slight by the name of "fly specks"—numerous dangerous bacilli. Dr. Cobb says that he has never published his own estimate of the number of fly specks made by each fly (and counted with a counter of his own invention) for fear of being accused of sensationalism. He says that window panes with 1,000 to 10,000 fly specks per square foot are not uncommon; and that ten to fifty per square foot are common in what are considered "excellently kept homes."

By the Million

As for wall paper, veranda posts and other objects not cleaned so often, Dr. Cobb says the number there is beyond computation; running into the millions. A fly will eat nearly half its own weight of food at a single meal and quickly deposit it, in specks, in places most dangerous to man.

One of the substances which the fly takes up and deposits in specks most readily is sputum—our best source of the germs of consumption.

Distance of Flight

Professor Robert von Lendenfeld of the university of Prague, after long investigations to find out what type of flying animal would make the best model for aeroplanes, found that the order Diptera, to which the house fly belongs, would make a better model than any we now have. Indeed, its powers of flight are phenomenal. Cobb, keeping flies on the wing constantly in a closed room, found that it was impossible to tire them, even after their tiny wings had been beating for hours. The fly's wing muscles make up twenty-six per cent of its entire weight.

The fly has been found to fly over two miles across water, and it is concluded by many scientists that vast longer distances are possible. The importance of this lies in the fact that the fly can pick up disease germs and carry them to houses very distant from the origin of the disease; so that a city district, carefully kept and wholesome, may be infected from an ill-kept disease swept district many blocks distant.

Summary

Eating constantly, from the minute of its issuance as an adult fly, and eating gladly of disease-infected substances, depositing these germs steadily and very frequently on prepared food, provided with pads and bristles to pick up the germs it does not absorb by sucking, able to carry its burden of death to great distances—the more one studies the fascinating fly, the more he sees how perfectly equipped a disease-carrier it is. The readers of The Tribune may well study the fly, and, imitating his diligence, combine in The Tribune's movement to

NEW COURSES FOR AGGIES

MADISON, Wis. Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The college of agriculture of the university of Wisconsin, soon to open, will present the following new courses: Experimental breeding 21, with topical work in heredity and breeding; horticulture 5, specializing in small fruit culture; three courses in plant pathology, and home economics. A course by which university women may receive training in writing for women's periodicals, like the Ladies' Home Journal is in contemplation, and if adopted will be the first of the kind in the schools of the country.

UNIVERSITY MAN ON CHINESE WARSHIP

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—The old saying that a Chinese warship "never goes to sea" now has no force nor effect, for on a recent morning the Hai Chi, the new first class battleship of the Chinese navy, steamed into New York harbor and boomed a salute to the American government. On this ship is a recent graduate student of the University of Wisconsin, Chang-Lau Chi who has taken his master's degree here and who is now filling a semi-diplomatic position as secretary to Admiral Kwang, in command of the battleship.

The battleship signaled China's real entrance into world politics by conveying China's representatives to the English coronation, and was the first Chinese ship figuring in such a ceremony in the western world.

Chang, as he was universally known at Wisconsin, was a pupil of Dr. Charles McCarthy in political science, who has just received a let-

FLORAL EXHIBIT THIS AFTERNOON

Twentieth Century Club Is Busy Awarding Prizes to Children in Big Contest

A public flower exhibit is being held by the Twentieth Century club at the public library this afternoon to which school children are bringing in specimens of what they have accomplished in the campaign which was started in the schools last spring for the purpose of beautifying the city. Flowers which the school children have grown from the seeds which they received in the spring form the exhibit which is being held today and to which the public is invited.

The club started gathering up the flowers which the children submitted at 1:30 today, the first specimens being brought from the Normal and the Washington schools. Other trips were made to the remaining schools to get what flowers the children there had brought. A prize fund of $33.00 has been provided out of which to pay prize winners. Those who win prizes will receive the cash premiums at their school rooms on Monday afternoon. Local florists have been appointed to judge the merits of the various specimens submitted.

This exhibit is the outcome of the campaign started by the Twentieth Century club for the beautification of the yards in the city. Seeds were furnished the school children last spring so that they might raise flowers at home and those who have done the best along that line will now receive their reward. The name and address of the owner is placed on a card which is fastened to the specimen brought in by each child.

NASHVILLE LANDS R. F. D. CONVENTION

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—Nashville was selected as the 1912 place of meeting of the Rural Letter Carriers' association late Thursday afternoon on the second ballot, beating out Kansas City and Columbus, O. The final vote was 74 for Nashville and 55 for Kansas City, Columbus dropping out on the first ballot.

The afternoon session was taken up with the election of officers and selection of the next place of meeting.

The officers for the ensuing year are:

Secretary—L. H. Wilson, Oliva, Minn.
Treasurer—L. P. Cameron, Upper Sandusky, O.
Member of the executive committee for three years—B. L. Osgood, Gaysville, Vt.
Messrs. McMahon, Brockway and Cameron were re-elected. The report of the treasurer showed a balance of $2,212.69 in place of a deficit of $1,100 last year. This had much to do with the ease with which the three officers named were re-elected.

F. R. A. INITIATES A LARGE CLASS

The beginning of the fall and winter campaign was duly observed by the Fraternal Reserve last Thursday night by the initiation of a class of 25 candidates and the council had made arrangements for the large attendance of the members. Refreshments were served during the evening and a four piece orchestra rendered a fine selection of dances.

The plans for the first big ball of the series were discussed, with the result that the committee in charge and members intend to make this another hit in the social events of the order. 1,000 invitations are to be given by the members to their friends for this Harvest ball, Oct. 11 and Linker's hall will be decorated in a Harvest effect to give the novelty to this dancing party. Andre's Theatre orchestra has been engaged and arrangements made for car service and other necessary details for the accommodation of a large crowd.

DISTANT QUAKE RECORDED CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—A severe earthquake was recorded by the seismograph at St. Ignace college, shortly before midnight last night. The first preliminary shock was recorded at 11:09; the second at 11:24 with the greatest disturbance at 11:26 and lasting until 11:53. Father Odenbach estimated the quake to have been from 3,000 to 4,000 miles from here.

MORRIS SAYS DUTY CALLS CITIZENS

County Undergoing Awakening that Means the Overthrow of Interests' Control

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 22.—Unless the public awakening continues to grow and the call to duty of the citizens increases in force control will never be wrenched from big business in the United States, was the warning sounded by Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris of La Crosse, in an address before thousands at the Tri-County fair at Winona yesterday.

He compared the situation of today with that of ancient Rome. Caesar's rule gained strength. In turn he packed the senate with men to do his bidding and in doing so they crushed every semblance of popular government, he contended.

There is a situation in the United States today that parallels that of Caesar's time.

History Repeated
The United States today, although the framers of the declaration of independence intended that the representatives should represent their constituents, are sending to congress men, in many cases, who represent the interests. Such a condition means the robbing of the people of their rights and duties and the obliteration of government "of the people, for the people and by the people."

European countries and many in the United States, he said, believe the experiment at representative government in the United States is destined to failure and the individual voter alone can prevent such a drastic outcome.

The speaker played a glowing tribute to the state of Wisconsin and the progressive measures in operation there. He referred to the railroad regulation, control of water powers, and the workmen's compensation act as measures which stifle the growth of the interests' control.

Refers to Probe
He also took occasion to mention the Stephenson senatorial probe, asking, "Is there any good purpose for which a man could spend $110,000 to secure a $5,000 a year job?"

A brief review of alleged trust control was made by the speaker. In closing he said:

"Shall we face and meet this big 000 to secure a $5,000 a year job? Shall we let things drift? Shall we continue to let the interests exercise the powers of government? And this question goes to the very foundation of government."

WISCONSIN DAIRY COWS' RECORD GOOD

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Thirteen of the 164 animals admitted to Holstein advanced registry for a recent period were Wisconsin cows. The total average milk production of these animals for a seven day period was 41.41 pounds, containing 14.345 pounds of butter fat equivalent to 16 1/2 pounds of commercial butter. These results exceed the average for this time of year, as the flies and heat are not conducive to cow comfort and it takes the bracing air of the cold season to develop the necessary appetite.

In these recent seven day tests Bessie Homestead, a junior four-year-old bred by S. B. Jones of Watertown, made an excellent record of 57.13 pounds of milk testing 4.89 per cent and containing 27.964 pounds of fat.

Recent additions to the dairy husbandry department of the Illinois agricultural college include the appointment of W. T. Crandall, a Wisconsin graduate, to have general charge of the pure-bred dairy herd and the official testing of the dairy cows. R. L. Hulce, another Wisconsin graduate, will work on the production side of dairying at the Illinois institution.

SHOOTS DAUGHTER'S LOVER

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Sept. 22.—Because Norman Easterling, a prominent young planter, disregarded the warning of H. C. Dyes, not to visit his daughter, to whom he was engaged, the father shot the young man to death. Easterling was in the family parlor talking to his fiancée when he was killed. The father made his daughter leave home with him and tied to the interior of the county with her.

JOHNSON BOUND OVER

FULTON, Mo., Sept. 22.—Richard M. Johnson, who shot and killed John Griggs, as he was entering the Johnson yard, near Boydsville, last week, waived preliminary hearing before Justice Egbert Humphreys today and was bound over to the circuit court under bonds of $2,500 to be tried in December.

Mrs. Johnson was believed to have been on her death bed when she made the confession that implicated Griggs and her recovery, which seems imminent, stamps her as a woman of remarkable vitality.

STOCKER REPLACES RANEY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 22.—The grand lodge of Odd Fellows today approved the selection of Gen. A. R. Stocker of Miamisburg, Ohio, as commander of the patriarchs militant, the military branch of the organization, to take the place of Gen. M. A. Raney, whose term of office will expire on Jan. 1, 1912.

REALTY MAN SUICIDE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—Fred M. Scott, 67, a prominent real estate man, committed suicide today by shooting. Ill health is believed to be the cause.

JUDGE GROSSCUP MAY YET RESIGN

'Turning Down' of Sleuth's Report by Magazine May Affect His Decision

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The resignation of Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States circuit court of appeals, which he announced yesterday, he would withdraw until threatened charges against him were fully answered, may go to President Taft, in October, as originally planned.

Judge Grosscup's friends declared today the "turning down" of the report of Laurence, Richie, former United States secret service operative, who admits that he has traitorized Grosscup for two years for an eastern magazine, is an indication that nothing serious can be found against either his political or private life, and that he will give the Richie matter no further consideration as a matter of his resignation.

It is said by Grosscup's friends that Richie has offered the "report" for several leading eastern publications, but that these publications did not consider the facts warranted an attack upon the federal jurist.

White Won't Print It

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—While making no positive statement concerning any manuscript he has concerning Judge Grosscup, Trumbull White, editor of Everybody's, today declined to deny he has been interested in an investigation into Grosscup's judicial acts. He said, however, that if he had a manuscript publication of which would cause Judge Grosscup to remain on the bench, he would not publish it.

White admitted that Laurence Richie, a detective, who has shadowed Grosscup, according to the judge's statement, has occasionally worked for Everybody's.

MASS MEETING SOON

MEETING ON TUBERCULOSIS
SANITORIUM TO BE CALLED SOON; ADVOCATE OPEN AIR SCHOOL

At the meeting of the permanent committee on tuberculosis at the city hall last night it was decided to hold a mass meeting at which efforts will be made to have all of the county supervisors and members of all the civic bodies present, within a fortnight, for the purpose of starting an organized movement for the procuring of a sanatorium for La Crosse county.

Several local and non-local people will be present at the mass meeting for the purpose of showing the need for the sanatorium and to persuade the supervisors of the necessity of its erection.

It was also decided to send a member of the committee to Milwaukee to attend the Wisconsin State Anti-Tuberculosis association convention that will be held in that city within a short time.

Miss Ryder, who spoke at the meeting, introduced a new plan for the doing away with the spreading of tuberculosis, recommending an open air school for La Crosse, and that the additional costs would be small in comparison with the benefits that would be derived therefrom.

FRANKLIN CLUB OPPOSED TO RECALL

The Franklin club last night put itself on record through an unanimous vote of the jury, against the recall of judges. The winning side consisted of C. L. Allemen, Prof. R. H. Butler and Alderman P. W. Mahoney. They were opposed by R. V. Ahlstrom, Prof. Harry Spence, and Dr. A. R. Kemper. The debate is said to have been one of the most interesting that have been held this year, and was featured by an enthusiastic arraignment of the recall as applied to judges by W. E. Barber. The question was stated as follows: "Resolved, that the recall should be applied to the judiciary."

The jury was composed of the Messrs. Mahoney, Marcou and Cooper. Prof. Spence took the place of Otto Schlabbach on the affirmative. Senator Otto Bosshard acted as critic of the evening.

CANADA OPPOSED TO TRADE PACT

opinion of Chairman Oscar Underwood of the house ways and means committee.

"I am greatly surprised and disappointed at the result," said the democratic leader today. "Reciprocity would have resulted in great good to both countries, and they have suffered material losses as the result of Canada's action."

Not End Says Foss

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—This one defeat for reciprocity does not mean its death," said Governor Foss today. "It is really hard to believe that the Canadians allowed themselves to be frightened by the annexation bugaboo and defeat a measure which would have meant so much to them as well as to the United States. The Canadian people certainly could not have clearly understood the issue. Reciprocity is bound to succeed."

Laurel Disappointed

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—"We must bow to the inevitable and I cheerfully accept the mandate of the people," was the declaration of Premier Laurier today in admitting that the liberal cause was utterly lost. "I gladly lay down the premiership, a burden I have carried for fifteen years. We believed that in making the reciprocity agreement, we had done something which would be greatly to the benefit of the people of Canada. The electors have declared otherwise. I regret that we have not been able to carry reciprocity, which I still believe would have promoted the natural advancement of Canada and the growing friendship between the United States and the home country."

Borden Nearly Beaten

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 22.—The liberal threat to defeat Robert L. Borden, leader of the conservatives, and the next premier of Canada, came uncomfortably close to being consummated and Borden and his friends have not yet recovered from their fright. At noon, with six polling places missing, the Borden plurality was only 43, but it was considered certain that in the missing districts he more than held his own. The fight against the conservatives leader was carried up to the very closing of the polls and for a time early today it seemed he had been defeated.

La Follette is Mum

Although Senator La Follette refused today to comment on Canada's rejection of reciprocity, a statement was issued by Walter L. Hauser, in charge of the progressive headquarters, which is behind the La Follette presidential boom.

"By rejecting the reciprocity treaty," said Hauser, "Canada has rendered a great service to American agriculture and denied to over-protected American manufacturers an additional advantage over what they now possess. Had I been a citizen of Canada, I would certainly have supported the treaty because it is entirely in favor of that country. For the same reason that the president desired its adoption, namely, to vindicate his judgment that it was a good thing for both countries, I might say that I regret that it has not been adopted, because if it had been, the effect of its operation would have vindicated the judgment of those who opposed it on the ground that it was at least a bad thing for this country. As it is all patriotic citizens of this country should rejoice."

Predict Long Campaign

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The liberal leaders in England refuse to accept the verdict of yesterday's election as indicating that that country is unalterably opposed to reciprocity. The leaders instead say that the result was merely a step in a lengthy campaign, and eventually Canada would accept the doctrine of free trade.

On the other hand, the conservative leaders are jubilant, believing that the result will be of inestimable benefit to the imperial preference plan and will also have a wide bearing on the tariff reform campaign in England.

BOB LA FOLLETTE MAY DEFEAT TAFT

Louis R. Brandeis Says He Has Chance to Land the Presidential Nomination

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—Louis R. Brandeis not only believes President William Howard Taft will certainly be defeated at the polls, if nominated, but that there is a strong probability that Robert M. La Follette will even beat Taft out for the nomination.

Brandeis said today that La Follette of all men ought to get the nomination and that if the people of the country really knew exactly what his true record is and what his ideals for the country are, they would insist on it.

"Senator La Follette ought to get the nomination," said Brandeis, "because he expresses himself better than any one else on the people's longing and needs; and he can turn his ideas into practical or constructive legislation which will prove in harmony with the wants of the people and the true needs of the interests and corporations. The increasing unrest of the people of the United States, caused by special privilege, cannot but soon express itself, for a man of Mr. La Follette's views and ideas."

GIRL'S MOTHER KILLS

REFUSES TO EXPLAIN WHY SHE SHOT WEALTHY YOUNG MAN ENGAGED TO DAUGHTER

MARIGOLD, Miss., Sept. 22.—The mystery surrounding the slaying of J. Y. McKnight, a wealthy young man, killed in a buggy on a lonely road last week while returning from the home of his fiancée, was cleared today when Mrs. J. L. Foley, mother of the girl, admitted she killed McKnight. She offers no defense and refuses a detailed statement.

On the night of the murder McKnight brought Miss Foley home from church about 10 o'clock. He remained an hour at her house and drove away, returning at 2 a. m. Her family were still up. At his invitation the girl got in the buggy and they drove down the road. Her mother followed them and the shooting followed. Younger children of the family say that when the mother and daughter returned the girl was weeping.

Mrs. Foley has been released on bail. The fact that McKnight carried a revolver led the court to believe she fired in self defense. The girl in the case is prostrated.

O'BRIEN MAY BE NEXT PRESIDENT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—It is whispered in baseball circles here today although unofficially that Joe O'Brien will depose Thomas Chivington, now president of the association in 1912.

O'Brien's former reign in that capacity, it is said, was over satisfactory while there has been serious objection to Chivington during the past season and a majority of the clubs hold him in disfavor.

FIRE MARSHAL'S WORK IS UNDONE

Convictions of Last Two Years May Be Set Aside as Result of the Ruling

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 22.—According to rulings made this week by Judge Parish in cases started by State Fire Marshal Purtell, the entire work of the marshal in securing convictions in the last two years may be set aside and dozens of people convicted by the fire marshal's force restored to their liberty.

Judge Parish has released from custody Con W. Lloyd, an insurance man accused of conspiracy to write insurance on lumber after it had been destroyed, and Charles Crown, a resident of Madeline island, arrested for setting fire to his own buildings in order to secure the insurance money. Both were arrested upon the complaint of the firemarshal.

Under the law organizing the state fire marshal's force they are permitted to hold a secret examination in order to determine the facts concerning any fire. In both the Lloyd and Crown cases, before any warrants were issued, the state fire marshal held a secret investigation compelling each man to give up what evidence he had and it was upon the evidence secured that the state fire marshal had the warrants issued.

The point on which Judge Parish dismissed the cases was that the proceeding of the firemarshal in compelling these men in a secret examination to give evidence that was used against them, was contrary to their constitutional right, which guarantees that no man can be compelled to be a witness against himself.

WALL BURIES MEN

ONE KILLED AND SIX INJURED WHEN CHURCH COLLAPSES AT WAUSAU, WISCONSIN

WAUSAU, Wis., Sept. 22.—One man was killed and six injured in the collapse of the new $50,000 St. James Catholic church Thursday noon.

The dead: Wachel, John, bricklayer, Milwaukee.

The injured: Joseph F. Ford, carpenter, Wausau, aged 30; cut and bruised. Labe Melang, carpenter, Wausau, aged 28; cut and bruised.

Herman Krause, bricklayer, Milwaukee, aged 41, scalp wounds and injured internally.

Albert Schulz, bricklayer, Wausau, aged 45; fracture of skull; probably will die.

Luke Keogh, laborer, Wausau, aged 30, ribs broken and ankle hurt. Joseph Guralski, bricklayer, Wausau, aged 30; ribs broken and scalp wounds.

Eighteen men were working on the building when the accident occurred. All of the injured will probably recover with the exception of Schulz, whose case is critical. Marks Brothers, Milwaukee, are the contractors.

LOS ANGELES AFTER FIRE CHIEFS' MEET

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—Los Angeles has started an early boom for the 1915 convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs. Its two representatives distributed badges and also opened headquarters in the Plankinton house. They crowded souvenirs in the nature of olive oil, wine, raisins, oranges and other products of the far western city on their visitors.

Over 700 chiefs and their wives enjoyed the hospitality of the Pabst Brewing company Thursday afternoon on a trolley ride around the city, ending at Pabst park, Whitefish Bay resort, where a "bratwurst" luncheon was served. The visitors found much of interest, many of them here getting their first glimpse of Lake Michigan. Others gathered pebbles on the beach.

Not all the chiefs took part in the outing. The test committee, composed of five members, held a session in the Plankinton and prepared a voluminous report, which will be read at today's session.

FINES FOR ILLEGAL FISHING

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Fines and costs collected in cases involving violation of the state fish and game laws during the first fifteen days of August aggregate $926.21, according to a statement by State Game Warden John A. Sholtis today. Forty-one cases were tried, from which came thirty-six convictions. Five cases were adjourned. No cases were lost. The sum of $124.70 was realized from the sale of confiscations.

DOMINION IS GROWING

CANADA'S FIFTH CENSUS WILL SHOW POPULATION OVER 7,500,000; LARGEST INCREASE IN THE WEST

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 22.—The completion of Canada's fifth census, begun in June, will show a total population considerably under 8,000,000, according to unofficial calculations. The official figures will be made public in a few days, as soon as the returns are in from the northwest districts.

Toronto and Montreal have made the largest gain in population, the former the greatest percentage of gain and the latter the largest gain in numbers.

The maritime provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have not grown as have Quebec and the other provinces, and Prince Edward Island has stood still.

In Ontario the population of the rural districts has fallen off on account of a large migration to the west. In Nipissing, East and West Algoma, Rainy River and Thunder Bay the population has doubled. All the western provinces show great gains.

The new census will raise the basis of representation in the house of commons from 25,000 to 32,000. The membership after redistribution probably will be raised from 221 to 241 members.

EMERY ATTENDS CONFERENCE

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery and Chief Inspector of Weights and Measures F. P. Downing have returned from Syracuse, N. LA FOLLETTE AS A FARMER BOY

First Chapter of Autobiography Depicts His Entrance Into World of Political Adventure

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Senator La Follette writes the first chapter of his autobiography in the October number of The American Magazine. His story is to run for nearly a year and will include frank characterizations of all the important men of our time, including Tom Reed, Carlisle, Blaine, Garfield, Allison, Spooner, Cleveland, Bryan, Roosevelt, Taft and others.

The senator has had a world of political adventures and his account of them starts entertainingly. You see him in his first chapter as a farmer's boy just out of the University of Wisconsin—poor, in debt, but with tremendous aspirations booming in his brain, and such "bustle" as is rarely seen. He conceived an ambition to become prosecuting attorney, and, with an old horse, started out literally to see every voter in the county. This aroused the anger of the political boss, who thought that any candidate for office should see him first. This resulted in a terrible fight, but young "Bob" La Follette won. Now came four years of exciting work as prosecutor—and then a new ambition—a desire to go to congress and again serve his people. Another fight with the everlasting boss, and La Follette, at twenty-nine years of age, found himself in Washington, the youngest member of congress—a man five years out of college who never had been east of Chicago.

It is all told simply and personally, with a fund of incident and detail. La Follette himself surely cannot realize the attractiveness of his narrative to the reader. He cannot possibly realize how the reader will smile with pure delight at the tremendous enthusiasm and determination of the boy who was to become "the most conspicuous senator of his time," as Collier's Weekly recently called him.

GAS MAIN BLOWS UP; FOUR KILLED

Foreigners' Boarding-house Filled by Leak; Lantern Causes Explosion; Bodies in Ruins

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Four men are known to have been killed when an eighteen inch gas main exploded here early today. A leak from the main caused the gas to enter a foreigners' boarding-house and a lantern is believed to have caused it to ignite. Three bodies have been recovered from the ruins. The boardinghouse was totally wrecked by the explosion.

Besides those burned to death, Mike Bernardo, also a boarder, was fatally injured, while a dozen others were seriously burned. The gas had so completely enveloped the house that when it was ignited, the structure was consumed like so much paper.

All the boarders have not been accounted for and firemen are searching the ruins for other bodies. The dead recovered are so badly burned that identification is almost impossible.

SAYS HE IS TRAIN ROBBER

NEENAH, Wis., Sept. 22.—The local police took into custody yesterday a stranger who claims to be one of the trio of train robbers who held up and robbed the Northern Pacific passenger train at Buffalo, N. D., several weeks ago. He goes by the names of Pat Crowe and John Young, he claims.

TIE OPTION ON PROGRESSIVES

Eberhart Men Attempt to Show Drys Are in the Other Faction's Ranks

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22.—Governor Eberhart's supporters are placing emphasis on the fact that many county optionists are aligned with the Progressive Republican league. They have gone so far as to circulate the report that Minnesota county optionists have been absorbed by the progressives and that they will cause an eruption sooner or later. The progressives have announced their position on county option, declaring that it should not be made a state issue, but should be fought out in each locality by returning men to the legislature in favor of county option.

The progressives denied today that they had made any overtures to the county optionists. In fact, they admitted that some of the most radical optionists had refused to join the cause because they could not exploit the cause of county option as a tail to the progressive movement. Think it Will Wreck Movement

One of the first things the Eberhart managers did was to check off the county optionists who attended the banquet in Minneapolis last week and they say they found enough to satisfy them that county option would wreck the progressives sooner or later. Elias Rachie and P. J. Youngdale were two of the most prominent county optionists present, but neither of them has actively identified himself with the progressive cause, although both favor the principles for which the progressives are fighting.

On the Other Side

In support of their position that the county optionists are as closely aligned with the standpatters, the progressives are mentioning Walter Newton, law partner of Congressman Nye, and others of standpat proclivities. Leading progressives declare that they are ready to welcome the support of the optionists, but they refuse to allow them to inoculate the progressive movement with county option.

Cite Davis' Stand

The regulars are commenting with considerable satisfaction on the interview of Congressman Davis, who, after addressing the progressives at their banquet, came out and advocated Theodore Roosevelt as the logical candidate of the progressives, rather than La Follette. They explain this on the theory that the Third district, which Mr. Davis represents, is against county option, and that some of the district leaders told him that he must not tie up with the progressives if it meant an endorsement of county option principles.

Will Not Miss Rich

Progressives are not hiding their disappointment over Congressman Davis' interview. They also say that their belief is great, now that W. W. Rich has declined to follow Senator Clapp into their ranks.

ERN EXPLAINS WISCONSIN PLAN

Insurance Commissioner Declares Fraternal Insurance Is Facing a Crisis

RATES MUST PAY BENEFITS

Says Greatest Enemy of Societies Is Lack of Understanding by the Members

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—A defense of fraternal insurance combined with a warning against the danger from an improper conception of its principles by its members was made by Herman L. Ekern, insurance commissioner for Wisconsin, before the Iowa Fraternal congress here Wednesday. Mr. Ekern's topic was "The Wisconsin Plan," on which he spoke as follows:

"Fraternal insurance is facing a crisis. Among the members, the reason for this trouble is even now understood. Many members have learned to regard their fraternal insurance as permanent whole life protection at the rates they have been paying. This requires an adequate reserve for which societies in the past have made no provision.

"The assessments have been made to cover current death claims. Older members are given insurance at less than its value and the deficiency is borne by the younger and newer members until a point is reached where the latter seek insurance elsewhere, leaving the older members to carry an impossible burden.

Rate Must Pay Benefit

"An adequate rate is not necessarily a high rate. The rate must pay for the benefit promised. At age 20 an annual payment of $6.29 is the net rate for a ten-year term, $10.34 for an ordinary life, and $10.84 for a ten-year endowment. At age 50 the figures are $17.14 for a ten-year term, $30.91 for an ordinary life, and $88 for a ten-year endowment. These rates are upon the N. F. C. table and the rates upon the American Experience table do not exceed these by more than $1 for the term at age 20, nor more than $13 on any form of insurance at either age. The interest basis is 4 per cent.

"The greatest enemy of fraternal insurance is a lack of understanding on the part of the members of the fundamental principles of insurance. The payment of merely his share of the death claims during the year does not entitle a member to other claim upon the society than the right to continue his insurance in the future at an increased rate corresponding to his increased age.

"The rapidity and importance of that increase is generally lost sight of. The amount at age 20 is $11.44; at 65 it is $34.40, and at age 80 it is $138.09, required to pay the exact amount of the death claim for the current year on $1,000 of insurance. Instead, therefore, of having something due them from the younger and newer members of the society,

PHARMACY EXAMS IN MADISON OCT. 3 TO 6

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The state board of pharmacy examiners will hold its quarterly session for examinations in this city Oct. 3-6. The October class is usually smaller than those of other months. The Wisconsin board maintains a reciprocal arrangement with boards of Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, whereby the latter attend the Wisconsin examinations and study the methods and character of the examinations in an effort to promote uniformity. The boards of the respective states are working toward the end that candidates for pharmacists' certificates may be on the same plane in all the states, making transfers easier of accomplishment and raising the standards generally. The Wisconsin examiners, taking advantage of this plan, have visited all of the states named except Ohio.

CAUGHT, TRIED, IN CELL

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Sept. 22.—Brought into court, arraigned before a quickly qualified jury, tried, convicted and hustled into a train for the Jackson penitentiary in twenty-five minutes was the record established today in the case of Lawson, the negro accused of attempting to assault the daughter of Mirion Furr. The trial itself occupied seven minutes.

MINE EXPLOSION FATAL

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Glen Lackey, 20, son of G. W. Lackey, vice president of District No. 11 of the United Mine Workers, was killed, and James Ferguson fatally injured today by a powder explosion in a mine at Dugger, Ind. Lackey was recently married.

Few of us can do more than one thing well. Many a man who has no difficulty in making money is a dismal failure as a spender.

MARINE STATION AND CITY MAYOR CLASH

DENVER, Sept. 22.—Mayor Speer has compelled the U. S. marine corps to haul down its colors and as a result the mayor may be involved in an imbroglio with the U. S. government. Official flags of the marine corps were hung over the sidewalk on the building in which the recruiting station has its quarters in violation of the city ordinances. Under threats of arrest Captain Hayes, in charge of the station, was ordered to remove them. He made heated protest to the mayor, but the mayor stood pat. The officer is expected to take the matter up with Washington.

FOND DU LAC GETS MEETING

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Fond du Lac, Wis., was selected as the meeting place of the Wisconsin union, American Society of Equity, by the executive board which met at Milwaukee last Friday. Announcement to this effect was made here today by the state secretary, M. Wes. Tubbs. The convention will open Nov. 1. The average attendance at these conventions is about 300. The program is in preparation.

CHINESE CRISIS OVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The crisis of the Chinese revolt is over. Rear Admiral Murdock, commanding the United States Asiatic fleet wired to the navy department today: "Official and private reports agree upon the restoration of order at Cheng tu. Crisis no doubt over." Chengtu is in the center of the disturbed district.

ONE KILLED IN RIOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—One man was fatally wounded and several detectives hurt today in a riot provoked by a coal driver's strike in Jersey City. The slain man was Frank Sonners, who refused to quit. His assailants escaped.

Doing Things By Clear Thinking

The thought comes first.

The better the brain,

The better the thought.

The better the achievement.

A good working brain is built up from food which contains the things brain is made of.

FOOD

is skilfully and scientifically prepared from wheat and barley and contains the "vital" phosphate of potash essential in building up a well-balanced body and brain.

"There's a Reason"

FOR

Grape-Nuts

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

To know of and use a food that will feed and restore brain and nerves before slight nervous troubles end in complete nervous prostration or brain-fag is wise, for unless proper food is supplied daily it is unreasonable to expect the nervous system to answer the demands made upon it.

There is a food, Grape-Nuts, for the particular purpose of restoring weakened nerves or fagged brain to health and strength.

A business man, of Baltimore, who made the trial, says:

"Two years ago my health had become so seriously impaired it was impossible for me to attend to business. At the least exertion my nerves would give way and the condition of my system allowed me little or no rest or sleep at night. Stomach trouble soon followed and I could take no solid food. I tried the best tonics and medicines, but they all failed.

"Finally Grape-Nuts food was recommended and after using it for 10 days I began to feel its good results and at the end of three months I was again a well man—nerves restored to their normal condition, strength renewed, and I was able to do any amount of both mental and physical work without feeling unduly fatigued.

"I know Grape-Nuts built up my brain and nerves and still keep them strong and vigorous just exactly as food builds up muscles or fat, for instance, and I am glad to have learned this valuable lesson." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Trial 10 days proves things when Grape-Nuts food is used. "There's a Reason."

these older members quite often, from a mathematical standpoint, are debtors to the society.

Reserve Is Required

"In all the history of life insurance of any kind, no plan has been permanently successful unless it contemplated the payment of fairly uniform premiums or assessments. The reserve permits the payments to remain uniform. This reserve has been mathematically determined in advance and the society is required to hold assets to such amount.

"No other kind of business is so little understood. The members of societies are honest. When brought to understand that their payments have been accounted for in value received by them in insurance protection or reserve accumulations, the objections to such readjustment or increased rates as may be necessary will vanish.

"Where there is an adequate accumulation of assets towards a reserve, the members have an equitable interest in the amount which should be apportioned to each. Even on an inadequate rate regarded as whole life insurance, the rate paid may leave a credit after paying the current cost of insurance sufficient to make up the deficiency in future payments for many years.

"The Wisconsin plan recognizes this. This plan provides for crediting each member for each year for what he has paid, and charging him with his cost of insurance. Such cost of insurance for the year is figured on the death rate for the attained age applied to the difference between the face of the certificate to the member's credit.

Plan Just to All

"This plan is easily understood and absolutely just to all. It assures credit for his over-payments either with or without increase in rates. It encourages new members. It permits extended or paid up insurance or premium loans. It permits the old members to remain on the old rates so long as any accumulation remains. It provides a just basis for transfer to an adequate plan by old members. It cannot fail to meet with general approval and will stand the closest scrutiny of the courts.

"The Wisconsin law now makes this plan compulsory for assessment organizations other than fraternal. Above all, the informing of the members of their individual accumulation upon this plan will lead to a better understanding and satisfy them that they have been justly treated.

"The Wisconsin law now further requires of newly organized or admitted societies a statement in each certificate issued for each year during the possible history of the insurance, of the charge for expense and the charge for cost of insurance, and the accumulation to the credit of the member on the basis of the mortality table and rate of interest and charge for expenses assumed by the society. A society which furnishes these facts will not be likely to make any big mistakes in its calculations, and the member who has this placed before him will have no excuse for not understanding his contract.

Old Members on Old Rates

"The requirement of valuation imposed by the Mobile bill, and of furnishing the information to the members, is the greatest advance which has been made in the history of fraternalism. As enacted in Wisconsin, it permits of the plan outlined. Under it, our department will make a whole life valuation and a valuation apportioning the assets on this plan. Our law omits the requirement for a compulsory increase in assets every three years after 1917. Societies are thus left free to permit old members to continue on old rates.

"The whole idea is to help each society in working out its problem by obtaining the fullest information possible in regard to its condition, and to leave to each society the greatest possible freedom in the making of such adjustments and changes as may be necessary to leave no doubt of the payment of all its future obligations.

"Fraternal insurance has served to distribute the burden which falls upon the widow and the orphan at a smaller economic loss for expense than any other method of insurance. It has been brought home the benefits of this form of co-operation to hundreds of thousands who otherwise would have been without it. It has taught organization and the spirit of co-operation and of a broader fraternity to millions of men. It has extended its beneficent influence to the humblest citizen. Every true friend of the fraternal system can best help in this work by squarely facing the facts and bringing them home to the members. The state and its supervising officials owe to these societies every assistance possible. When the facts are at hand and the conditions are understood, the problem will be simple and the future of the societies assured."

MONTGOMERY IS HONORED

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—F. Warren Montgomery, president of the Southern Wisconsin Railway company, the local traction system, will be elected president of the Madison club this week. The committee on nominations unanimously selected him at last week's meeting and there is no opposition. The Madison club is composed of the most influential business men in Madison and some of the most prominent politicians in Wisconsin. Alfred T. Rogers, law partner of Senator La Follette and republican national committee man from Wisconsin, is slated for secretary of the club. Among the members are Governor F. E. McGovern and former Governor J. O. Davidson, and several Wisconsin congressmen.

If there is anything going on, there are always plenty with time to watch it, despite this great American rush.

LIGHT FIRM FEARS PROBE

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Since the state railroad commission threatened an investigation of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, the Eastern Wisconsin Railway and Light company, Fond du Lac, and the Menominee Light and Fuel company, following their refusal to comply with orders of the commission to maintain light and fuel standards, the companies have been endeavoring to comply. This is given by the commission as the reason for the postponement of the hearing, which is on the September calendar for September 22. No definite date has been set for the hearing.

$100,000,000 IS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—There were 7,493,458 depositors having $3,762,401,625 on June 7 in the Mutual Savings banks of the United States, according to a statement by Controller of the Currency Murray today. There were only 12,000 more depositors than in June, 1910, but the deposits increased $100,000,000.

METHODISTS ENTER PROTEST

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 22.—Bishop William A. Anderson, presiding over the Detroit Methodist Episcopal church conference today, named a special committee to draft a set of resolutions protesting against the possibility of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson presiding over the brewers' congress in Chicago next month. Copies of the resolution, which will be made public tomorrow morning, will be sent to President Taft and Secretary Wilson.

TWO ACCUSED OF MURDER

AMERICUS, Ga., Sept. 22.—Mort Childers is under arrest at Smithville, charged with the murder of his bride, Mrs. Childers. A former sweetheart, who was the accused husband's rival, is held on the same charge. The men are imprisoned in adjoining cells and each accuses the other of the crime. The woman died after taking a dose of a sample medicine. Analysis showed it contained poison.

Unusual Interest is Manifested in Our Millinery Displays

The last two days have been marked with unusual activity—the new modes are all in—marking the last word of Fashion's approval. Chic French touch has been cleverly reproduced by deft American fingers. Velvets, Plushes, Taffetas, Velours, and other soft elegant materials, in rich dark shades or high colors are prominent in the displays. The early tendency is toward small and medium shapes, narrow rolling brims, and crowns of varying height, simply trimmed with a bow or feather. Very striking little creations much in vogue.

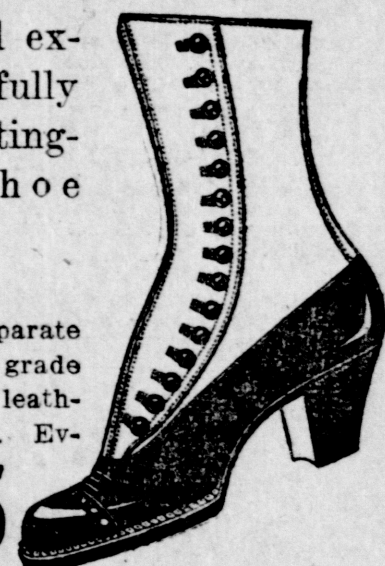

Dress Hats are large and more elaborate than ever, gold lace, flowers and furs forming the trimming; presenting color combinations in coronation purple and ruby, gold and brown, white and black, empire green and king's blue. Gold and silver laces and fringe of all widths, are much in evidence. Novelty ostrich also has a sheer or metallic effect.

FOUR OF PARTY PERISH IN WILDS

Spooner, Minn., Cruiser Returns from Canadian North, Where He Sought Spruce

VIRGINIA, Minn., Sept. 22.—Just back from a thirteen months' cruise in the north Hudson Bay region for the Canadian Northern Railway company, Henry Underwood, a cruiser of Spooner, Minn., tells a story of hardship and suffering from the cold last winter. He wept as he detailed the death of four of his seven companions in the wilds.

Underwood left Prince Albert, in the North Saskatchewan country, the last part of July, 1910, with six companions, he being the leader of the cruising expedition, the object of which was the location of desirable spruce timber for the railroad company. The party took dogs and toboggans from the Hudson Bay country for the winter trip and went well prepared for the hardships of a new wild country in a cold northern climate. They traveled nearly 2,000 miles north of Winnipeg. Starting down the latter's waters to the Nelson river and thence to Hudson Bay, arriving at Port Nelson. Thence they proceeded northward to Fort Churchill and 650 miles north of that fort. They found plenty of spruce, but in the north it was too small for the purposes of the railroad company. Further south they found a nice tract of the desired timber.

"78 Below" Weather
In January, February and March the party encountered the severest weather, the thermometer registering as low as 78 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. They carried provisions enough to carry them between trading posts of the Hudson Bay company, which are scattered all over northern Canada.

Four parties had been sent at various times by the Canadian Northern to cruise in the country traversed by this party, but all turned back without making the required explorations because of the severe winter weather.

Four Perish; One Suicide

Mr. Underwood's party was reduced to three on the return trip, four having perished with the cold, one being frozen so badly and yet alive that in his agony he pulled his gun and shot himself in the head. The bodies of the four men were buried deep in the muskeg and the places marked. The company expects to send a party next winter to recover the bodies and return them to relatives. Mr. Underwood's feet were frozen several times and he lost all his toe nails permanently. He says that though the journey paid him handsomely, financially, he would repeat it for any amount of money. He had a five years' contract with the Canadian Northern, and early in November will go with a party into the north Peace River country, where the climate is milder and where he expects to find large tracts of fine spruce. On these trips Mr. Underwood selects for companions only the finest and hardest specimens of physical manhood.

GRAIN MARKET ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The defeat of reciprocity in Canada yesterday resulted in one of the most exciting openings of the grain market here in years. Northwestern offerings were almost demoralized, Minneapolis advancing 5½c and Duluth 6½c. Winnipeg was ¼c lower.

You can tell a man with a family of children by how nervous he gets when he drops a coin on the floor even in his office.

TRUSTS SCRAMBLE TO REORGANIZE

Revolution in Big Business Combines Presaged by Action of Harvester Merger

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—When Attorney General Wickersham returns to the department of justice October 1, he will be in a position to decide upon the scope of the trust prosecutions to be launched. It was learned today that the trust busting officials' activity will be practically suspended in the meantime owing to the fact that the several trusts which have been under investigation are scrambling to head off prosecution and have notified the department of their willingness to reorganize so what after the fashion which the American Tobacco company and the Standard Oil company have been compelled to follow. Their plans are necessarily intricate and require much time, so the attorney general has temporarily halted his prosecutions.

Assistant Attorney General Fowler, who is in charge of the investigation into the affairs of the International Harvester company, returned to the department yesterday and found on his desk the reorganization proposal of that company.

The opinion was expressed at the department today that within a month or six weeks a revolution will be worked in the big business combines of the country. The prediction was that the reorganization plans will be submitted by half a dozen trusts and those that do not do so will be vigorously prosecuted at an early date.

Before the advent of Uneeda Biscuit the only persons who ever tasted fresh, crisp soda crackers were the people in the bakeries.

Imagine their trip from bakery to your table; exposed to air and moisture—kept in grocers' boxes and finally in a paper bag on the shelf in your pantry. Could they be the same as they were the day they were baked?

Now that we have Uneeda Biscuit—we have perfectly baked soda crackers—perfectly kept.

No moisture can reach them—no contaminating influences can affect their flavor—their goodness is imprisoned only to be liberated by you for you when you open the package.

Always in the moisture proof package. Never sold in bulk. 5 cents a package.

BOARD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS TO WORK

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The state board of public affairs will open its permanent offices and begin the big task cut out for it about October 1, according to present plans. Professor B. M. Rastall of the University of Wisconsin recently was chosen director of the board and Robert A. Campbell, legislative reference librarian of the University of California, secretary. Mr. Campbell's acceptance has not yet been received. His education was received at the University of Wisconsin and during his course he gained his experience for his present position under Dr. Charles McCarthy in the Wisconsin legislative reference library.

WILL INVESTIGATE COUNTRY SCHOOLS

The State Superintendent Names Committee to Assist in Studying Educational System

COTTON IS ON COMMITTEE

Many Farmers Suggest a Consolidation of Schools as Remedy for the Troubles

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—State Superintendent C. P. Carey has appointed a committee of fifteen to assist him in studying the education situation in the state, particularly as it relates to the country schools. This is an entirely voluntary matter on the part of the superintendent and also on the part of the committee that has been appointed. There is no provision for payment of expenses, but all those who have been invited to become members have enthusiastically responded. The membership of the committee is as follows:

Miss Rose Cheney, Manitowoc, Wis.
Mr. A. H. Christman, Menominee Falls, Wis.
Mr. George F. Comings, Eau Claire, Wis.
President E. A. Cotton, La Crosse, Wis.
Hon. John S. Donald, Mt. Horeb, Wis.
Supt. Leo P. Fox, Chilton, Wis.
Mr. Charles L. Hill, Rosendale, Wis.
Prof. F. S. Hyer, Stevens Point, Wis.
Prin. M. H. Jackson, Grand Rapids, Wis.
Insp. W. E. Larson, Madison, Wis.
Hon. A. H. Long, Prairie Du Chien, Wis.
Miss Ellen B. McDonald, Oconto, Wis.
Professor M. V. O'Shea, Madison, Wis.
Professor C. E. Patzer, Milwaukee, Wis.
Hon. George E. Scott, Prairie Farm, Wis.

Superintendent Cary has requested this committee to meet in Madison on October 5. Two or three members of the committee will probably find it impossible to attend because of previous engagements. There is much interest manifested everywhere with reference to the progress or lack of progress in country schools, and this committee will make a serious attempt to discover and to make public the facts in which the public is interested. The committee will be invited to pursue its own method without the slightest hampering on the part of the state department, although the entire department will be at the service of the committee.

Study Special Phases

Superintendent Cary says that he presumes they will divide into sub-committees to study special phases of the problem. Everybody who is interested in the country school problem will be welcomed by the committee at its meeting, and many will doubtless be personally invited to appear. Correspondence will also be encouraged. When the committee meets, the state superintendent will have replies from about five hundred farmers who answered a questionnaire that he sent out about a month ago. These replies will be tabulated in statistical form and will be added to as additional replies are received. The names made use of in sending out the questionnaire were obtained through careful inquiry and were distributed fairly evenly over the state. Not half of those addressed have yet replied. Of those who did reply, between one-third and one-half stated that the country school is at the present time satisfactory. Somewhat more than half replied that the country school is not satisfactory, and that the principal difficulty is weak teachers. Some express this weakness in one way, some in another, but many speak of them as untrained, inexperienced, and young. They lack power to govern, and too many of them are city girls. Some of them are lacking in common sense and life experience; others lazy and indifferent, impractical in their work, uncooperative, taking no interest in the community. The next greatest weakness expressed by these writers is that of lack of interest on the part of parents and citizens. A full one-third of those who had objections to offer to the schools mentioned this as of great importance. The carelessness and indifference of parents gives rise to irregularity in attendance difficult ties in discipline, and other school troubles.

School Officers Criticized

School officers also come in for their portion of criticism. A large fraction of the replies are to the effect that many localities have non-progressive school boards who run their schools either in a careless, unbusinesslike way, or in a miserly manner. There are many who think that school districts are too small, that there are too few pupils, the school attendance poor, and the compulsory law not enforced. They say there is lack of thoroughness in the fundamentals; lack of proper equipment; too many classes for one teacher; lack of proper supervision; and that text books are not adapted to country needs.

The suggestions commonly made are, the consolidation of schools; better training of teachers; the enforcement of the compulsory attendance law; better wages to good teachers; better supervision; country high schools; the school to be made a social and civic center with evening meetings, debates, farmers' clubs etc. Community troubles, feuds, and the like, interfere according to many, with good work in the country schools. Many find helpful forces at work in the country school board conventions, the compulsory attendance law, the county training schools for teachers, state aid for rural schools, efficient work of county superintendents, parents' meetings, farmers' clubs, and educational gatherings of various kinds.

MADISON PLANT BUILT

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The steel work on the new addition to the plant of the Gisholt Machine company in this city is nearly completed and the brick walls are now rising. The enlargement will practically double the space on the shop floor, where the Gisholt turret lathe and other designs are produced. This improvement, covering a half block, and the construction of a new office building across the street from the plant, will cost about $165,000. The steel work is being done by the Worden-Allen company, Milwaukee.

MANITOWOC GETS PLANT

MANITOWOC, Wis., Sept. 22.—A seven year fight to secure municipal ownership of the water works plant was ended on Tuesday when a contract was signed to transfer the plant to the city on Oct. 2 for $247,500, which is $11,500 more than the valuation fixed by the state rate commission. Mayor Henry Stolze, Jr., who led the fight, was elected seven years ago and again at the last election on a municipal ownership platform.

FRENCH TURN TO BEER

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Statistics for the present year show that the French are no longer a wine drinking people. Since last January they drank 131,250,000 quarts of beer in excess of previous years. Probably the heat wave is to blame. Beer is taxed in France, and the government has taken in the eight months of this year $400,000 more in beer tax than it ever collected in any whole year in the past.

It is much easier to find fault than to lose one.

PANAMA CANAL TO HELP CALIFORNIA

Opening Will Mark Start of Great Things for Western State, Says Dickinson

SEES A CATTLE SHORTAGE

Ranges Are Being Cut Into Small Farms and Beef Is Disappearing Now

That the opening of the Panama canal in 1915 will be of greater value in the development of California as a manufacturing and export center than any other single factor is the belief of C. W. Dickinson, secretary of the La Crosse Plow company, who has just returned from a five weeks' trip in the interest of the Plow company through the southwest and California.

At the present time, according to Mr. Dickinson, California is for the most part an agricultural state. There is comparatively little manufacturing, the inhabitants being mostly engaged in fruit, grain or vegetable growing. There is little exporting, says Mr. Dickinson, the greater part of the exports from the eastern manufacturing centers going to the far east by way of Seattle and other points farther north.

With the opening of the Panama canal, he asserts, freight rates to the coast, especially California, will take a drop, and raw material for manufacturing will be shipped in at a cheaper rate. According to figures which Mr. Dickinson was given by a business man in San Francisco, the rate on iron, for a single instance, is expected to drop from sixty-five to thirty-five cents per hundred. Already one of the eastern plow companies is planning on erecting a plant on the east side of San Francisco bay, and it is rumored that large coal fields in southern California are to be opened up, and converted into iron and steel, by a number of men who are said to be connected with the Southern Pacific railway.

Big Boom in Frisco

San Francisco, he states, is at the beginning of the great real estate and building boom in its history. This he declares to be in advance of the Panama exposition, which will be in Frisco in 1915. Building operations are general over the city. Mr. Dickinson, however, believes that the boom will die out after the big exposition is over, and that real estate values will take a sudden drop. The reason for this is that there is more building, and more new business enterprises, springing up than the population of the city will warrant, according to Mr. Dickinson. He states that the city will undoubtedly grow to a size large enough to warrant the stupendous booming of buildings, but that following the fair there will be a big slump in prices and prosperity for a few years before the city grows sufficiently.

Mr. Dickinson is greatly pleased over the showing made by La Crosse made plows in the west. He cited one instance of a farmer on the coast, a

LA CROSSE FUR COMPANY

The New Store 113 NORTH THIRD Workmanship Unexcelled

beet grower in southern California, who was using a gang of La Crosse plows drawn by ten horses to make furrows 14 inches deep. He declares that no other plow company than the local factory makes a plow that can stand the strain of a 14 inch furrow. He cites the experience of a man who attempted to plow a twelve inch furrow with two old fashioned mold board plows and twelve horses. He had to stop before he finished his first day owing to the fact that his horses were completely worn out. Mr. Dickinson is also extremely proud of the performance of La Crosse made plows on a farm in western Kansas, where one man using forty disc plows behind a traction engine turned up an average of 85 acres per day.

Cattle Becoming Scarce

Mr. Dickinson prophesies a big cattle shortage in the next decade, basing his forecast on the fact that all the big ranges are being daily cut up into small farms of a few acres, and the cattle are being sold off. He declares that with the country increasing in population at the rate of a million and a half a year it will not be many years before the total supply of beef cattle is entirely too small for the number of people that must be fed. Accordingly, Mr. Dickinson declares, that the only remedy that he can see is more alfalfa. "You can't grow too much alfalfa," he declares, "It is possible to glut the market, but you can turn your cattle into it for pasture, and there is such a shortage of beef that it will be a mighty profitable investment."

Land is Costly

Mr. Dickinson declares that one of the things that most impressed him on his western journey was the high price of land in California. He says that $500 an acre is the average price in fruit growing districts, and in the bean lands. He tells of one locality where the farmers have been growing grain, but where they have become possessed of the idea that their land is suitable for apples. No apples have as yet been grown for the market, but the price of the land has been placed at $500 per acre. In the district devoted to bean raising, he declares that $1,000 is no uncommon price for an acre of the fertile soil. Practically all the farming is done by the expensive irrigation system, especially that of fruit culture. "California is no place for a poor man to start a farm," declared Mr. Dickinson, "the land costs too much to begin with."

On his western journey Mr. Dickinson covered practically all of the west and southwestern states. He did not go into the extreme northwest. His itinerary was as follows: Kansas City, western Kansas, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Las Vegas, N. M., Salt Lake City, Sacramento, Stockton, San Francisco, San Jose, Ventura, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Antonio, Houston and New Orleans.

On his return trip, made via the Southern Pacific and the Illinois Central, Mr. Dickinson was delayed for four days on account of washouts and wrecks.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent. of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Reckall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction. Reckall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, heating influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Three sizes, 50c, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. O. T. Erhart.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN.

Byron Hewitt, attorney-at-law of Rockford, Ill., was in the city a few days this week. Mr. Hewitt was a resident of Prairie du Chien thirty years ago, and was a partner of Major L. F. S. Viehle, leaving here to locate in Rockford. This is his first visit to Prairie du Chien in twenty-eight years.

Hon. T. T. Sime of Gays Mill is in the city in the interest of the Gays Mill Fair association of which he is president. The dates for this year's fair are October 9, 10, 11 and 12. The Prairie du Chien and McGregor baseball nines will play ball on the fair grounds on the morning of the 11th for a purse of one hundred dollars. Viola and La Farge will play in the afternoon for the same amount. Muscoda and Lone Rock will play in the forenoon of the 12th and in the afternoon the winners of the two games on the 11th will play.

E. P. Sherry of Milwaukee and C. S. Rogers of Duluth are in the city on business connected with the L. Case estate.

D. F. Horefall is making a trip through Viroqua sightseeing and looking for possible real estate investments, making his headquarters in Richmond.

Friends here were grieved to receive the tidings of the death of Mrs. William Garrity at Colorado Springs on Sept. 18. The body will be brought here for interment. Mr. and Mrs. Garrity and family left here in June for Colorado hoping the change of climate would prove beneficial to her health.

Mrs. W. A. Johnson will entertain the Methodist Ladies' Aid society at her home east of the city Friday afternoon.

Mrs. C. W. Graves of Viroqua spent a few days in the city this week the guest of friends.

Walter Brenner is home from Oregon for a vacation and visit with home folks.

Mrs. D. F. Horsfall is visiting at Joliet, Ill.

Miss Laura Hall returns this week to her studies in Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Alexander Frederick entertained her sister, Miss Edith Ballentine of Bloomington, and a friend, Miss Edith Pollock of Dubuque, the first of the week.

Attorney W. R. Graves is in Duluth on business.

Miss Mary Rowley is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lindsay in Milwaukee.

Miss Margaret Paris leaves this week for Madison to resume her studies in the university.

ROSS, SICK, FEVERISH CHILDREN
NEED GENTLE THOROUGH CASCARETS

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat sleep well and need a gentle, thorough physic—but don't try force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach. It is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanses the little one's system, sweetens the stomach and puts the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10 cents per box.

VEROPLANE FALLS
AT VIROQUA FAIR

Narrow Escape when Aviator Ludwig's Curtiss Bi-plane Plunges Into Crowd

Several escaped serious injury and possible death late yesterday afternoon when the Curtiss biplane, driven by "Dandy" Ludwig, Chicago aviator, crashed to the ground in an exhibition flight at the Vernon county fair at Viroqua.

Ludwig escaped being crushed underneath the engine by leaping from the machine and that fatalities were averted is due to the fact that the accident happened at the northern end of the grounds where teams and rigs were quartered.

Ludwig, owing to the poor starting place at the fair grounds, had difficulty in leaving the ground. He finally rose, however, and after attaining an altitude of fifteen feet cleared the race track and started over the heads of the crowd.

Suddenly and without warning the machine plunged down, one of the wings caught a buggy in which Isaac Tollickson and Ole Christensen, farmers, were seated, and crashed to earth.

The forward part of the machine was badly smashed and it may be impossible to repair it in time for another attempt to fly which is scheduled for this afternoon.

Neither Tollickson nor Christensen were injured.

MANY DELEGATES
AT BIG MEETING

Two Hundred Expected on Opening Day of Northwest German M. E. Conference

NOTED MEN ARE TO BE HERE

Come from All Over the United States to Talk; Lay Electoral Conference Meets

With 200 delegates and ministers from parts of Iowa, South Dakota and Wisconsin and noted men from all parts of the United States in attendance, the forty-eighth annual conference of the Northwest German Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opens at the First German M. E. church, Seventh and Ferry streets, at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

At the same time the lay electoral conference will meet in the German Baptist church, Seventh and Winnebago streets. The first meeting of this organization will take place on Friday.

Bishop John L. Neulsen, D. D., Omaha, Neb., will preside at all of the meetings which continue until October 2.

The business sessions will be from 9 to 12 a. m. daily.

Dr. A. J. Booker, Cincinnati, is on the program for a daily explanatory talk on the Bible and will speak from 8:30 to 9 a. m.

Noted Men are Coming

Many men and women of note will attend the conference. Among them are Dr. Boswell, Philadelphia, representing the Home Missionaries and Home Extension Work; Dr. Trenery, who will tell of the Sunday school board work; Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, who will explain the work of the board of education; Dr. Joseph B. Hingley, who will represent the board of superannuates; Dr. Wippermann, Warrington, Mr. representing the German orphanages; Mrs. Hill, New York; Mrs. Mary Willenmeyer, Charles City, Ia.; and Miss Mary Martin, who are interested in the women's home proposition. The anniversary of the latter organization will be celebrated Saturday afternoon.

During the meeting dinner and supper will be served in the church parlors.

MILWAUKEE MAY BUY NEW LINE

A rumor from Chicago states that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company is contemplating the putting on of a passenger and freight service to Duluth from St. Paul to connect with its trains to Chicago and to the West. According to the information this step will be taken within a short time.

According to an old agreement made between the Northern Pacific railroad and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul at the time the Northern Pacific purchased the old St. Paul & Duluth line, the Milwaukee road was to have the use of the Northern Pacific line between Duluth and St. Paul as soon as one-half of the purchase price had been paid by the Milwaukee.

It is known that the Milwaukee road has paid part of this amount, and ever since the Northern Pacific has been operating the Short Line, it has been handling the freight business for the Milwaukee. However, the Milwaukee road has never put on its own trains.

It is now preparing, it is said, to pay up the balance of the purchase price of the old St. Paul & Duluth road, and to put on its own freight and passenger trains. The company has always looked upon Duluth as one of the best locations, but as it has had its hands full with the western extension, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound road, it has not been in a position to take up the Duluth proposition.

EASTERN COLLEGES
ARE HARD AT WORK

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Harvard, Dartmouth, Hanover, N. H.; Brown at Providence, and Tufts college football candidates were given lighter work today than usual. The scrimmages at the institutions yesterday were the first of the season, and not any too light at that, if reports from all are to be believed.

At Harvard the men stood the heavy work well and today showed little signs of the usual "Charley Horse" after the first few scrimmages. Coach Haughton and Captain Fisher said today they soon expect to begin working on an entirely new signal system for this season. As it looks now, Harvard is expected to have one of the heaviest elevens in years.

HEIGHT AND FEATHERS CHARACTERIZE FALL MILLINERY

In spite of the efforts of the Audubon society on this side of the Atlantic and kindred organizations on the other, there is a very decided return to plumage decorations in the latest fall autumn millinery. And when fickle fashion calls, sense and sentiment have to give way as is shown in this instance.

In the picture above is seen one of these latest hats. The feathers are those of the ordinary rooster, shaped and trimmed to a height that is in direct contrast to the broad low confection of last year. There is apparently no limit to the lofty altitudes to which these hats may reach. The body of the hat is of bronze brown velvet with an upturned brim that rises front and rear.

CUMMINS FAVORS ALL AMENDMENTS

Surprised at Taft's Stand on Proposed Changes in Anti-Trust Measure

AMEND LAWS BOTH WAYS

Should Be Made so as to Work for Best Interests of Corporations and People

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 22.—"I am greatly surprised to know that President Taft is so emphatically opposed to any mention or supplement to the anti-trust laws," said Senator A. B. Cummins, in a statement to the United Press this afternoon, in which he discussed the president's speech on trusts at Detroit. "Personally," said the senator, "I believe that the anti-trust law should be amended or supplemented, both in the interest of large business enterprises, and in the interest of those who must buy the products of such enterprises."

The statement follows: (By Senator A. B. Cummins of Iowa) I have no comment to make upon the president's view of the opinions of the supreme court in the Standard Oil and the American Tobacco cases. The interpretation put upon the anti-trust law in these opinions must be accepted as final, and whether the construction is sound or unsound it will stand as the law of the land. I am greatly surprised, however, to know that the president is so emphatically opposed to any amendment or supplement to the anti-trust law. I have discussed that subject with a great many people since these opinions were delivered and while they have not concurred in the kind of amendment that ought to be made, they have all been earnestly in favor of some change.

Favors Plan

Personally, I believe that the anti-trust law should be amended or supplemented, both in the interest of large business enterprises and in the interest of those who must buy the products of such enterprises. The situation is intolerable from the business point of view. Some restraint of trade is declared to be lawful by the supreme court but the extent of that lawful restraint cannot be known by the business man until he is prosecuted and his case reaches the supreme court. He does not and cannot know as he proceeds with his business, whether he is a good citizen or a criminal.

We all recognize that a great part of the business of this country must be carried on in a big way, and those who carry it on have a right to demand that the law shall be so clear and so definite that they may know in advance what they can lawfully do and what they are prohibited from doing. I have those of them who will like to obey the law, but there will be nothing but chaos until the country is informed what is and what is not a "reasonable restraint of trade."

Demand Imperative

From the standpoint of the buyer or consumer the demand for an amendment is even more imperative. The anti-trust law was enacted to preserve competition in business and thus keep prices down to the point of fair profit. It has not done this in the past, and it will not do it in the future, no matter how rigorously it is enforced. Under any construction that has been given to it, or that have been given to it, will still allow corporations to grow to such magnitude that they will exercise a dominating influence over prices and we might just as well have absolute monopoly as to permit one corporation to fix prices for a series of other corporations engaged in the same business. If we intend to maintain competition as an effective force in determining prices of necessity for amending the anti-trust law is apparent to everyone who has given careful thought to the subject. The time has come for constructive legislation upon the most vital question of our industrial life. After the most careful inquiry this conclusion has seemed to be the universal judgment and I deeply regret that the president has announced so positively his opposition to the general trend of economic opinion.

SPEED PROGRAM FAST FOR FAIR

C. L. Hood's "Alice McGregor" Expected to Set New Marks at Big Interstate Races

ATTRACTIVE ARE NUMEROUS

Van Auken's Tour of Other Fairs Gets Results and He Promises a Banner Year

That the Interstate fair this year will be one of the most successful in the history of the association is evident by the excellent attractions secured and by the exhibits, entries for which have been coming in so rapidly that the lists are just about complete. There will doubtless be many exciting contests in the various departments for all entries are high class.

According to all indications the races will be especially exciting this year for some of the best horses procurable have been secured for next week's program. Forty horses, which will certainly furnish plenty of excitement on the race track, are to come here to compete in the various events which have been arranged. Four of the racers which proved so popular at the Chippewa Falls fair have been secured for La Crosse and if their performances of this week are any criterion some of the best events ever seen here will be on the program.

Hood's Horses Fast

Both of C. L. Hood's horses, Alice McGregor and Alexander, which proved to be such excellent cards at Chippewa Falls will be here for the fair and there should be a great deal of interest centered about them as they are the property of a local man. Alice McGregor, a three-year-old, set up a record for horses of that age by making the 2:30 trot in 2:22 1/4. Secretary C. S. Van Auken, who saw Alice McGregor run at Chippewa Falls, says that the performance was excellent and that she should do fully as well here. Alexander is another horse who should be heard from for he is in a high class. Combined with other speed marvels there is every indication that there will be a great deal of interest centered about the race track next week for some great contests are certain to be staged there.

Attractions Clever

The Capital City Amusement company which will have its shows on the pike, several free attractions, and merry-go-rounds, a ferris wheel and other riding devices, is an organization which is bound to please. They have made good where they have showed previously because they put on good attractions so it appears that the pike will have some exceptionally good attractions this year.

As an added attraction Secretary Van Auken recently secured Charley Cutler's wrestling troupe to come here for fair week. In this company are fourteen men, all of whom are athletes and wrestlers of the highest type. Cutler himself is considered a mat artist, he having an immense physique. He was in Gotch's training camp at one time. The troupe showed with a great deal of success at the Wisconsin State fair at Milwaukee last week and made good, so this attraction, which is a feature in itself, should prove popular here.

Prize Offered

A cash prize of $50 is offered by Cutler to any man in this city who can wrestle with him and keep from being downed for 15 minutes.

That the livestock exhibit will be an excellent one is certain for the association has 25 cars of all varieties of stock coming here. Some of the stock exhibited at the Wisconsin and Minnesota State fairs will be brought here, this alone being ample assurance that the exhibit will be a fine one.

The sheep and swine sheds have been repaired so as to put them in the best possible shape for the fair exhibits while the sheds from which the roof was torn off during the storm last Sunday are also being fixed up for next week. Other improvements have been made on the remaining buildings, they being whitewashed and in other ways repaired so as to have them in as good condition as possible.

Poultry Exhibit

As word has been received that there will be a great deal of poultry exhibited here, a tent was yesterday put up to take care of all the birds. There will be two cars of poultry from Chippewa Falls, which, together with that from Winona, other surrounding towns and from La Crosse will make up a large show. Those who are interested in this line will thus have an ample opportunity to see an excellent exhibition.

Today a tent is being pitched for the dog show as it is known that there will be a large kennel exhibition. A large number of prize dogs are to be entered so this show will doubtless be interesting.

An exceptionally large amount of money has been put up for premiums, a fund of $7,000 having been provided with which to pay prize winners. This will surely stimulate competition for any one who wins will receive sufficient remuneration to pay for his trouble in exhibiting at the fair.

Van Auken on Grounds

Secretary Van Auken moved his offices out to the grounds this afternoon in order that he might be on the place to superintend everything. Privileges and concessions will be sold on Saturday and all arrangements will be completed so that the fair will be ready for visitors on Tuesday.

MILWAUKEE CHIEF MAY NOT BE PROBED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—The socialists may not be able to have Chief of Police Janssen censured by the council for alleged negligence in failing to use the new $4,200 police-hospital ambulance on Sept. 10, when a street car accident occurred on the south side.

Alderman Welley is threatened with the humiliation of not getting the support of enough party members because his attempt to "railroad" the resolution through the council and then refusing to give Chief Janssen an opportunity to explain his position in committee, has not been pleasing to administration members.

The feeling now is that Welley will have to shoulder the entire responsibility if he desires charges to be filed with the commission.

OPENING RALLY AT THE Y. W. C. A.

Plans for the Year's Work to Be Discussed at the Association Home Tonight

The opening rally, which is to be held at the city Y. W. C. A. tonight promises to be a very interesting affair. Besides a social good time, a special feature of the evening will be a program showing different phases of the class work of the association for the year. Anyone interested in knowing the many valuable courses offered by the association for the year would do well to see the representation of class work, both humorous and otherwise, as it has been planned for the rally. Special music has also been provided. Folders for 1911-12 are out and will be distributed at the rally. The educational committee has planned an unusually splendid schedule of classes for the year with very competent teachers.

The association home is to be open for inspection so that an opportunity may be given any who have never been through the house to see the home.

The social committee, under whose direction the rally is being planned, have arranged for a large crowd. It is hoped that all women in the city interested in the larger work of the Young Women's Christian Association will take this opportunity of knowing the plans for the new year of work.

TAFT BLAMED FOR WILSON'S 'DISGRACE'

MASON CITY, Ia., Sept. 22.—Resolutions condemning Tama Jim Wilson, secretary of agriculture, for accepting the vice-presidency of the Brewers' congress, adopted by the Waterloo presbytery before it adjourned, caused much comment. Rev. J. N. Currens, of Traer, Wilson's own pastor, scored Secretary of State Knox, whom he blamed for getting Wilson into the trouble and said it was a shame for President Taft after all the years Wilson has served with honor, to drag the grey-hairs of this 80-year old man into disgrace with his church.

"I voted for Taft before, but I will not repeat," said Rev. Currens. In the debate by a dozen ministers, many of them life-long friends and church workers with Secretary Wilson, the general idea expressed was that they consider President Taft and Secretary Knox forced Mr. Wilson to accept the vice-presidency of the Brewers' congress for political purposes.

FAIR RECEIPTS LESS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—Although the receipts from admissions to the state fair of 1911 were some $9,000 less than in 1910, the total receipts from all sources are but $11,92 less for the latter year. Treasurer Dahl today had compiled his accounts and found that the total receipts for 1911 were $73,776.04 as compared with $73,887.96 in 1910.

UNIFORM LIABILITY LAWS ARE PLANNED

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The executive committee of the American Association for Labor Legislation, at its meeting in Chicago last week, delegated the Wisconsin industrial commission to make the arrangements for a conference on state and national employers' liability laws, to be held at Chicago on Oct. 13. The Federal Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation commission, Washington, D. C., meets in that city Oct. 16. The members are Senator William Warner, Missouri, chairman; Senator C. V. Hughes, Jr., Colorado; Congressman William G. Brantley, W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines; D. C. Pease, editor of "The Railroad Trainman," and Launcelot Packer, secretary.

The commissioners for liability laws from all states having such legislation will be invited to attend this conference, the purpose being to hasten uniformity in such laws, and to guard against future complications. There is a movement to secure federal laws for employers' liability, to apply to railroads, marine service and other forms of interstate commerce employment. The commission above named is working to this end.

Jelly Roll Recipe

Only Two Eggs Required

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This Jelly Roll is fast becoming very popular on account of the way it keeps fresh. With proper handling it should keep fresh a whole week, providing it isn't eaten up in the meantime, for it is every bit as good as it looks.

K C Jelly Roll

One cup sifted flour; scant half teaspoonful salt; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; grated rind of 1 lemon; 2 eggs beaten light; 1 cup sugar; 1/2 cup hot milk; glass of jelly; powdered sugar.

Beat the sugar into the eggs; add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder; and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered dripping pan; turn out on a damp cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Dredge the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll enables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the eggs and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven.

K C Jelly Roll is illustrated on page thirty-two of the new and handsomely illustrated 64-page K C Cook's Book, which may be secured free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAGUES MFG. CO., Chicago, Ill.

WOODROW WILSON IS CHIEF SPEAKER

New Jersey Governor on Program of Social Center Conference at Madison

A NATION WIDE MOVEMENT

Convention Held to Develop Public Spirit Through Free Discussion of Problems

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey will give the chief address at the opening of the first conference on civil and social development in Madison on Oct. 25. This conference is held under the auspices of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin in cooperation with the Social Center association of America, and has as its object the promotion of the use of existing public property for civic, social and wholesome recreational activities. The important basis of the movement is the establishment of the New England town meeting idea not once but fifty-two times a year in every community in America.

Of this citizens' gathering for the development of an intelligent public spirit through the open presentation and free discussion of public questions in schoolhouses and other public buildings. Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Hughes when governor of New York said: "I am more interested in what you are doing and what it stands for than in anything else in the world. You are buttressing the foundations of democracy." The convention will bring together leaders in civic movements from points as far east as Boston and south as far as Texas, and will take up various special phases of the problem of social center development. The keynote, however, will be struck in the address of Governor Wilson on "The Need of Fundamental Citizenship Organization."

The chairman of this opening meeting, which will be held in the university gymnasium on the night of Oct. 25, will be Dr. Louis E. Reber, dean of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, which is the first department in any state university to establish a bureau of civic and social center development. Governor Francis E. McGovern, who as a school principal became convinced of the desirability of the citizenship use of the schoolhouse, will give the address of welcome for the state. President Charles

Wash your dishes with GOLD DUST

Ordinary dish-water only cleans the surface. Put a dash of Gold Dust into the water and it will go to the bottom of things, drive out every bit of dirt, every germ, every hidden particle. Gold Dust cleanses as well as cleans.

We promise you this if you use Gold Dust:—Your dishes will be sweeter and cleaner than ever before, and you will save at least half the time ordinarily consumed in washing them.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

The Swimming Marathon held in Chicago last month, attracted the best swimmers in this country, 46 entries, with but one lady contestant, Miss Anna Harris, who swam unattached, starting 400 yards behind the start and finished in twelfth place, over a two mile course.

Miss Harris was as fresh at the finish, as when she started, in spite of the temperature being 58 degrees. Moving pictures of this exciting event are being run at the Lyric tonight and tomorrow. Miss Harris appeared in vaudeville at the Majestic theatre, in La Crosse, last season, in her swimming and diving act. Anyone enjoying aquatic sports should not miss seeing her in this great race.

R. Van Hise of the university will give the welcoming address for that institution.

Dr. Josiah Strong, author of "Our Country," founder of the American Institute for Social Service, and president of the Social Center association of America, will give the response to these addresses. These addresses will mark the formal opening of the convention and make way for the speech of Governor Wilson.

This convention will not be a partisan gathering in any sense, and the meetings will be open to all men and women.

YESTERDAY WAS START OF AUTUMN

A Meditation on the Season with Reference to the Three Others

Others

FALL IS APPROACHING FAST

Nature Paints Everything with Lavish Brush and All the World Is Glad

There is a consensus of agreement that in the United States the finest of the four seasons is that upon which we are about to enter. Our winters are too cold, our summers too hot, and our springs—if we can be said to have any springs—are too uncertain; but the American autumn is admittedly incomparable.

When the different seasons appear they have their effect upon us in some strange way. It is a strange thing that there are so many who never think of the changing seasons, it makes no difference whether it is fall, summer, spring or winter. There is just the same monotone of life to them. They feel nothing of the spirit of the year. To them it is the self centered atmosphere, without interest in nature and things living or growing about us.

The spring brings with it such a wonderful joy. It is the time when we feel most and come into a higher understanding of spiritual things, for we can commune with nature. There is something that calls forth the best in us during these months, and we long to walk through the fields and woods, to watch the tender green shoots appear on trees and hillsides and wait for the peeping heads of flowers. Spring is nothing more than a child bringing tender messages of love.

Summer Restful Season.
During the summer months there is a different tone entirely. It is the restful season, when one seeks a quiet, lazy place, to drink in the glorious beauty of the blossoming plants and perfumed air. Sunshine and foliage at its height, and what is more beautiful than this season, which brings us the realization of the promise of spring, which constitutes cheer and happiness.

But it is in the autumn that one finds, who has a sensitive mind, the truth of the great lessons of nature. There is first that strain of parting, as if nature wishes to sing that sweet but sorry song of "Good bye, summer," and to give us the most perfect parting and the best of her efforts. She paints everything with lavish brush in flashing colors. No one who has ever lived to see can withstand the glories of her foliage in the fall of the year, when the mountain or lake and the forest or gardens are aflame with purple, gold and crimson tints. The yellow that is waning from the sunshine seems to have been imprisoned in the leaves and plants, to a warmth which we so much need. It is the sweet farewell that autumn brings us and a realization of her marvelous powers of art.

Who can look at these wonders and not feel the spirit back of it all, and who can fail to get into some such strain of thought? To be affected by these things is really to understand, and yet it is delightful to become so imbued with the spirit of love for everything, that we delight in nature and her ways.

Then Comes Winter.
It is not long before nature is asleep in her white robe and the back ground of gray clouds hang over until we feel she will not awaken in time.

The desolation of winter is easily overcome, if we make our homes warm, cozy and beautiful, and bring spring, summer and autumn into them, in the way of love, cheerfulness and charity.

Each season has its joys and each month brings its pleasures. Therefore do not let the sad notes of autumn ring all minor chords in your heart. Bring yourself to understand that from these glorious months of autumn everything is for the best and we get the best it has to offer. Go in to the woods and see what you can of nature. Remember this is the season when nature expects us to glean what she has sown in the spring, and we shall garner the sheaves of happiness only if we have right thoughts and enjoy each day as it comes to us.

CHARITY CONFERENCE TO BE IN MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—For the first time in almost two decades a state conference of charities and corrections will be held in Milwaukee.

The meetings are scheduled for Oct. 12, 13 and 14 in the Elks' club. The speakers have not all been decided upon, but of those already engaged two are of national reputation. They are: Dr. Richard C. Cabut, professor of medicine in Harvard university and the originator of the hospital socializing method, and Orlando B. Lewis of the Russell Sage Foundation, also secretary of the National Prison association.

The conference will open with registration and business Thursday afternoon, Oct. 12.

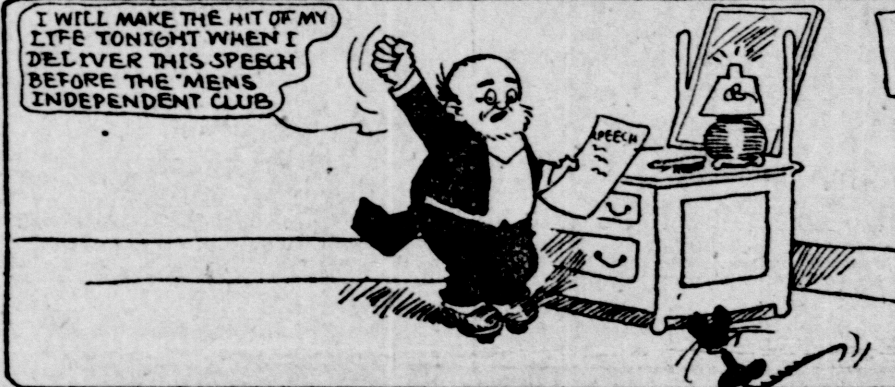

Saturday night a joint meeting with the Anti-Tuberculosis convention delegates, in session the same days, will be held. Dr. Cabut will address this meeting.

STILLWATER GIRL VICTIM OF FATE

Driven to Suicide by Millionaire's Son's Craving for Drink; Buried Unmourned

THE MAN IS IN AN ASYLUM

Pretty Maid Unfamiliar with Ways of World Sees Romance End in Tragedy

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The dipsomaniac ward of the Pennsylvania asylum for the insane at Norristown holds Charles A. Thomas, son of Percival Thomas, head of the American Wood Dye company, a man rated at several times a millionaire, and the cause of his imprisonment there, which has just been learned reveals a hitherto undisclosed story of a Stillwater, Minn., woman's shattered romance and her subsequent suicide.

Since the younger Thomas was 18 he has been called a "heart breaker," for he was a handsome, happy-go-lucky fellow and popular among most of his acquaintances. However, he seemed unable to control his appetite for drink, and it became necessary to send him to the Norristown asylum for treatment.

Early in the summer he had suffered recovered to warrant his release, and he went to his father's home at Atlantic City. He made all kinds of promises, and the father had hopes that the son was saved. But in the house he met his mother's pretty Swedish maid, a bright young woman, aged 22, who was not very familiar with the ways of the world.

Thomas made love to her, and her head seemed to be turned by the attentions of the young man. He induced her, it was said, to leave with him, and they came to this city in August, taking a room in the home of August Heil.

"We were married in Jersey City yesterday," Thomas told Mr. Heil. Thomas for several days tried to get work—his father had refused him money and had cast him adrift—but he failed. With loss of hope came the old unquenchable desire, and he relapsed again. The girl saw a wild man in place of the lover, who had been kind to her, and she suffered much in silence, making every effort to stop the young man in his course. For a week she reasoned with him in their little room, and would not wholly abandon hope until August 30. That night he went to the room and lay across their bed in a drunken stupor. The sight was too much for the girl. Her heart was broken. She lifted a bottle of lysol to her lips and drained it.

Later she was taken to Bellevue hospital. But the physician said there was no hope, and at daylight in the morning she died. The day after her death a little box of silver knives and forks came as a wedding present from the girl's mother and father in Stillwater, Minn. She had written to tell them of her marriage to the son of a millionaire. The young man, who had come out of the stupor by that time, needed more money for drink, even if his wife's body was in the hospital. He pawned the tokens and proceeded to forget.

Thomas became such a nuisance about the place that Mr. Heil went to the father and asked that the son be taken away. Then Thomas disappeared.

Mr. Heil asked hat something he done by the millionaire toward burying the body of the young wife. Later an undertaker came with a plain coffin to the morgue and the undertaker, Mr. Heil and the grave diggers were the only mourners when the body was lowered into the grave at Mount Olivet cemetery.

Thomas, who disappeared, turned up two days later at his father's office in Philadelphia and asked for money. He was promptly taken back to the dipsomaniac ward at Norristown.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR UNIVERSITY

Plan Marked by Handsome Provision for Women Students; General Scheme Observed

WORK IS ALREADY BEGUN

Will Conform in Location and Style to the Plan for University's Future

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—A dormitory for women students, a building for home economics and university extension work, an agricultural chemistry building and an annex to the armory are included in the building program of the university of Wisconsin for the next year. Much of the work will be under way before winter. The building will conform in location and style as much as possible to the general scheme for the university's future.

The building plan is marked by handsome provision for women students. Chief of these structures will be a new dormitory capable of accommodating 150 students, to be built on University avenue between Chadbourne and Lathrop halls and having a front facing Park street. It will be connected by passage ways with both Chadbourne and Lathrop halls. Its cost will be $150,000. The home economics building will cost $115,000 and will have a site east of Agricultural hall, facing south on Linden drive. It will be three stories high. The university extension work will be centered in this structure. The agricultural chemistry building will be erected on University avenue opposite the forest products laboratory, facing south and in line with the agronomy building. An auditorium seating 500 persons will be a feature. The cost will be $90,000. The addition to the chemistry building will be on the west side of that building, facing Charter street. For this work there is an appropriation of $76,000.

The annex to the armory and gymnasium will be on the east side of the building, one story high and the same length as the building. It will house various games of the students. It will have a running track twelve feet wide with twelve laps to the mile, and space for indoor baseball, handball and other sports. The first floor of the present gymnasium will be remodeled and new lockers installed. The main floor will be reserved for military drills, and gymnastics will be conducted solely in the cage on the top floor. Work will begin soon.

ARIZONA IS HIS FAVORITE

In Forty-seven Years George Carey of Columbia Did Not Leave the Territory.

Forty-seven years' continuous residence in Arizona, without once setting foot outside her borders, is believed to be the record. It was established by George Carey of Columbia, Yacopal county, who has just returned from a two months' trip to Los Angeles and other coast points after living in this territory since 1864.

When Carey first came to Arizona he was a freighter. From mining camp to mining camp he drifted, until the want of lucrative business forced him into mining. That was more than 25 years ago, but it was not until last spring that prosperity came. He received the first payment on some mining claims that he had developed with his own hands, and bought a round trip ticket to California. For two months this trail blazer gazed upon towering buildings and other modern wonders of which he had read, but which he had never seen. When he passed through Prescott on his way to Columbia he said that he had enjoyed every minute of it, but that he had stayed "just long enough."

Carey is now developing some promising claims near those that he sold and probably it will be several years more before he leaves Arizona again.

CURTISS FLYER KILLED

KILL YOUR QUACK GRASS

We have, for the benefit of all interested in the eradication of quack grass, sprayed a spot near the machinery hall, on the Interstate Fair grounds, La Crosse, Wis. It was sprayed the 25th of Aug. and we especially invite you to call on us during the fair. There will be a man to explain things to you. You can examine the roots and convince yourself that the solution does kill quack grass, just as claimed. It has been tested for the past three years, and we are now shipping it all over the country. We have convinced the different railroads of its killing power and give you here below a testimonial from the Yard Master of the Milwaukee Road.

If you are interested, send in your check for a sample barrel, $6.00 f. o. b. cars La Crosse. It is already to apply and once over kills your grass and doesn't injure the soil. Hoping to have the pleasure of meeting you at the fair, we are,

U. S. Quack Grass Dest. Co., City.

Gentlemen:—

This is to certify that I used one barrel of your Quack Grass Killer on our short line between North La Crosse and Onalaska, Wis., on C. M. & St. P. R. R., for one mile. Using a spray beam 10 feet wide with 21 nozzles, utilizing the air from a locomotive for pressure, and went at a speed of 8 miles per hour. It killed every kind of weed in four days and left the ground bare. I can cheerfully recommend this liquid to any one requiring same and deem it especially adaptable for railroads.

Respectfully,
 J. H. LUTIGER,

TAKES PHOTOS OF THOUGHTS

French Scientist Says He Has Got Impressions of Them on Sensitive Plates.

Much interest has been aroused in Paris by the announcement of the well-known scientific investigator, Commander Darget, of the success of experiments in photographing human thought.

Commander Darget, who has devoted a long time to the study of hypnotism and kindred subjects, stated to the Academy of Science that after many trials he had succeeded in obtaining photographic impressions of thoughts of concrete objects. He produced as evidence two photographs, one showing a walking stick and the other a bottle, in each case the image being perfectly distinct.

In explanation of his achievement, Commander Darget gave the following account of the process:

After staring a long time on the object to be photographed in a strong red light, concentrating all his attention on it, he fixed his gaze with all the will power at his command on a photographic plate that had previously been immersed in a weak developer in a dark room. At the end of a quarter of an hour the image of the object appeared on the negative.

According to the commander's theory, these astonishing results are due to certain obscure light rays which he calls "V" rays.

Americans in Canada.

Americans are rapidly colonizing the three Canadian provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. These three provinces had a population of 1,176,000 in 1909 and nearly 500,000 of these settlers were Americans. Last year America's contribution to the population of the provinces was 91,175 and these took with them an average of $1,000 each. A few years ago the land in any one of these provinces could be bought for $3 an acre. Now it ranges from $20 to $30 an acre.

OUR 6 DAYS CLEARANCE SALE

Which Opens MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 25, 1911, Affords Remarkable Opportunity for the Thrifty and Economic Piano Purchaser. Note the Following Reasons Which Make This Sale Compulsory.

Our experience in handling large stocks of PIANOS and ORGANS throughout Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas, has taught us the art of discrimination and the necessity of closing out Pianos that become shopworn — Pianos that are cancelled styles of many of the manufacturers' preceding year's designs—as well as every Piano returned to us from renting, regardless of profit or their original cost, and to merely state that they are bargains is putting it mildly.

These Pianos, which entitles the purchaser to large discounts, are not only standard made, but instrumentally reliable and constitute a safe Piano investment.

Beautiful San Domingo, Mahogany Burl Walnut, English Golden Oak and Circassian Walnuts are among the elegant woods used in case construction of these magnificent instruments and while we are selling this stock at cost and in some instances less than cost, we are by so doing averting a much larger loss a little later on by not carrying such pianos over and endeavoring to sell them at their original price during this year.

Housecleaning is a necessity in every establishment and this clearance sale affords everyone looking for a Genuine Piano Bargain an opportunity they cannot afford to miss.

Choose the make of your piano as you would respect the author in selecting a good book. Note the following well known brands of Pianos that are to be sold at Cost and less than cost during this great weeding out process now in progress at our store:

Vose, Steck, Bergh, Kimball, Schaeffer, Kohler & Campbell, Whitney, Weber, Sohmer, Autopiano and Cecilian Self-Player pianos and many more.

Prices from $20.00 up. Piano Players, $35.00 up. Organs, $8.00 up.

Seeing is believing and here at our store is where your eyes will serve you best.

Every piano is marked in plain figures and a card giving the history of the piano since it left the factory is on each instrument. To the bargain hunter this opportunity will prove a rare treat, and any piano sold during this sale will not only take with it the manufacturers' guarantee but our personal guarantee as well. This proposition should cause the most skeptical to abandon further hesitancy and secure for themselves a piano of the greatest dependability at a great saving.

We are not only slaughtering prices on pianos but on everything in our store that is a little shop worn or used.

We earnestly invite all who are interested in the purchase of a Piano to come in to our store at once and ascertain if we have not something to please them in this bargain stock.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Special Session.
Office of the County Clerk, County of La Crosse, State of Wisconsin, ss.

July 25, 1911.
The county board of supervisors of La Crosse county met in special session pursuant to call, at the court house, on Tuesday, July 25, 1911, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The board was called to order by the chairman, R. W. Davis. The clerk called the roll, all members present excepting Messrs. Robert Davis, Kindley and Timp.

The clerk read the call for special meeting as follows:
To C. H. Rawlinson, County Clerk, La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

The undersigned, members of the board of supervisors of the county of La Crosse, constituting a majority of the members thereof, hereby request you to call a special meeting of said board, to be held at the court house in the city of La Crosse, on the 25th day of July, 1911. Such meeting to convene at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, as said board will be ready for the transaction of business.

Dated at La Crosse, Wis., July 6, 1911.

The clerk presented the petition and affidavits of Herbert Coolidge, a blind person applying for aid under the provisions of chapter 283, laws of 1907. The petition and affidavits were referred to the committee on ways and means and poor and insane.

By Mr. Guenther:—
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:—Your special committee for the erection of additions to the building at the county poor farm reports, that it met on June 6, 1911, and selected the tile to be used in the bath rooms in said addition; that it met again on June 23, and selected the hardware, the same not being included in the general contract, being so advised by the architect in order to avoid mistakes by the contractors. We have purchased the hardware from the Kroyer Hardware company, total amount being $22.40. Your committee recommends that bill for same be allowed in the usual manner.

Respectfully submitted,
E. W. GUENTHER,
CASPER ANDEREGG,
G. R. HODGE,
Special Committee.

Adopted.
By the Clerk:—
To the Honorable Chairman and Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:—Your committee on erection of a bridge over Fish Creek in the town of Bangor, appointed by the chairman of this board to act with the town board of the town of Bangor, in the letting of the contract and the acceptance of the bridge when completed, beg leave to report that the bridge has been erected and completed in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by the state highway and bridge engineers and your committee has approved and accepted the bridge. The total cost of said bridge was $1,100, of which amount the county pays one-half or $550 less than the original appropriation for the purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
WENZEL HINTGEN,
R. MEINKING,
Special Committee.

Adopted.
By Mr. Guenther:—
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:—Your committee on poor and insane met June 21, 1911, and inspected the county poor farm and found the building in clean condition. The new addition was then nearly completed. The coal purchased from the Tenneson-Pederson Coal company at $5.05 per ton for lump f. o. b. cars is entirely too fine and is dangerous to the institution, and in the judgment of the committee, no more of that kind should be bought.

Respectfully submitted,
E. W. GUENTHER,
CASPER ANDEREGG,
G. R. HODGE,
Committee on Poor and Insane.

Adopted.
By Mr. Cox:—
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:—Whereas, the legislature of Wisconsin, session of 1911, has enacted a law chapter 499, providing for the settlement of controversies relating to the maintenance of bridges over streams constituting a boundary between counties; and

Whereas, a controversy has been pending for years between the counties of La Crosse and Trempealeau relating to the maintenance of the so-called McGilvray bridge over Black river, a boundary stream between said counties, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the chairman of this board shall appoint a committee of two members, who with himself as chairman of such committee shall, as soon as practical, proceed to adjust if possible, the pending controversy between the said counties, relating to the equitable maintenance of the so-called McGilvray bridge and approaches thereto, according to the provisions of the above cited law. If the committee in a reasonable length of time cannot make an agreement with Trempealeau county relating to the future maintenance of said bridge and approaches, the committee is hereby empowered to initiate the proper legal proceedings to discontinue that part of the bridge and approaches in La Crosse county. But if in the opinion of the committee, Trempealeau county desires to adjust the controversy in compliance with the provisions of the newly enacted law, the chairman of said committee shall notify the chairman of the road and bridge committee to proceed to temporarily repair said bridge and approaches in a sum not to exceed $300. Said committee shall report at the next meeting of the board.

Referred to committees on roads and bridges and ways and means and district attorney.

The clerk presented petitions and accompanying resolutions of the town board of the town of Hamilton, petitioning for aid, under the provisions of Chapter 1, laws of the Special Session, 1905, in the construction of bridges as follows: Eight hundred ($800.00) dollars for construction of a bridge over McKinley Creek near the Martin McElowney farm; eight hundred ($800.00) dollars for construction of a bridge over Gills Creek near the John Mikkelsen farm.

The petitions and resolutions were referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

By Mr. Hulberg:—
Whereas, Chapter 337 of the laws of 1911, providing for state aid and supervision for the improvement of public highways requires that the electors of any town on or before September 1st, vote a special tax of not less than two hundred fifty dollars for building bridges and of not less than four hundred dollars for improving highways in order to be entitled to such state aid.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the several town chairmen be, and hereby are, requested to see to it that a special meeting be called in each of said several towns for the purpose of voting such special tax to meet such towns' share of the cost of constructing bridges or improving highways on a portion of the prospective state highway system.

Referred to committee on roads and bridges.

By Mr. Keppel:—
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin:

Gentlemen: Your special committee appointed to act with the town board of the town of Campbell in the letting of the contracts, supervision and erection of the so-called Smith Creek bridge near the Dawson farm and the bridge across the slough near the Peter Hoffman place, beg leave to report that on June 2nd, 1911, your committee met with the town board to let the contracts, due notice to that effect having been given. Plans were furnished by the state.

Bids were received as follows:

DOMESTIC MARKETS

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — The stock market opened feverish and excited. Steel common lost five points from last night's close, selling at 53 1/4. Great Northern preferred declined more than four points, Northern Pacific lost 2 1/2 and Canadian Pacific yielded 1 1/2. The market later steadied, recoveries of a point being made.

11 a. m.—After the early excitement trading became quieter and fluctuations were confined within a narrow range. The railroad list ruled strong. Steel common rallied more than two points.

Governments unchanged; other bonds unsettled.

Noon—Before noon the tone in some stocks became as strong as it was weak at the opening. Steel common crossed 57.

2 p. m.—After a period of steadiness following the sharp rally around midday, the market again developed pronounced weakness. Steel common and Union Pacific yielding about two points. The market then again rallied from fractions to more than a point.

The stock market closed irregular.

Grain Letter

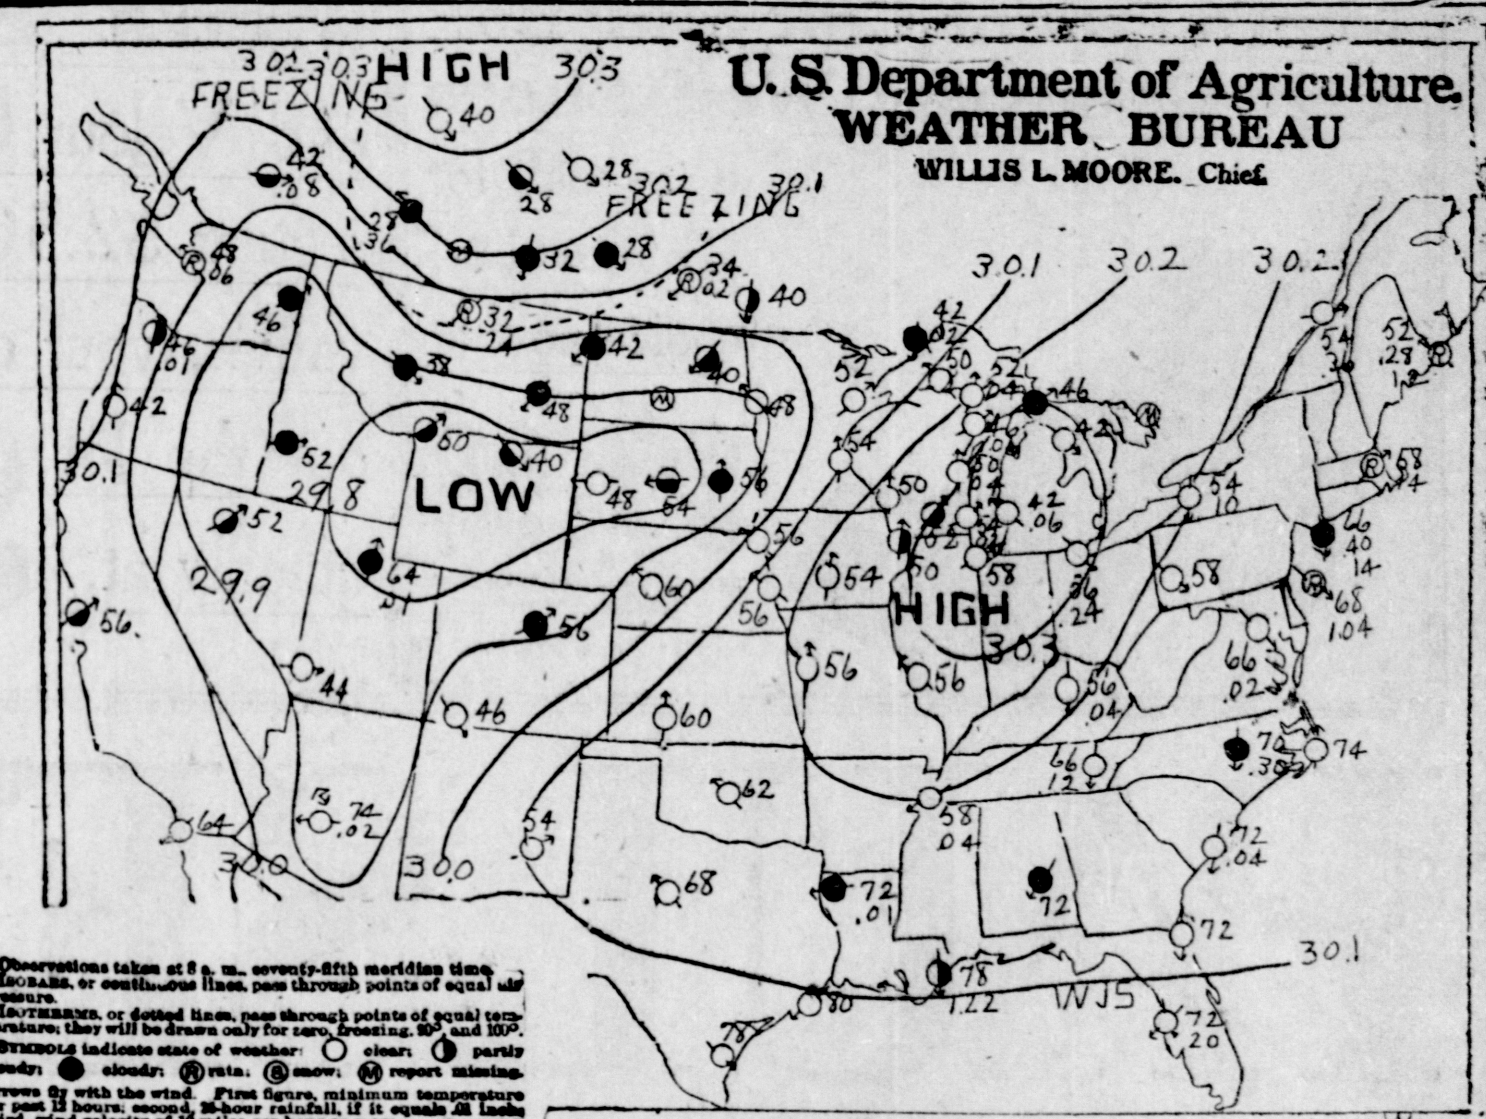

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — Prices soared today in the wheat trade. The possibility that the grain shipment from Canada, which has depressed the market for months, was killed by the decisive vote against reciprocity yesterday. Nine out of ten members of the grain trade expected reciprocity to win and they were prepared for such a result. September wheat opened at 93 1/2c, which was 1 1/2c above the close of yesterday. At noon the price had soared 1 1/2c more. December contracts were correspondingly increased. Not in months has the big wheat pit been filled with a surging mass of traders, all excited, as those who fought for admittance to the market today. Visions of scarcity of milling wheat in the northwest marked the price explosion was greater. Big milling interests in that quarter have a scabby, lightweight spring wheat crop this year. They are counting on choice wheat from Canada. The adverse fate of reciprocity will be a help to the big traders.

Oats prices were sharply higher at the start. At noon trading September oats had advanced 1 1/2c over the closing last night of 43 1/2c. However the feature was the big buying by cash houses principally of December. Commission houses were the principal sellers on the bulge, but at the opening it was extremely difficult to trade owing to the paucity of offerings.

Provisions opened weak, but the market developed a firmer tone during the subsequent trading.
